

JURY UNANIMOUS FOR ROOSEVELT, BUT WOULD SPLIT COSTS

Men Who Heard William Barnes' $50,000 Suit for Libel Sent Back After Bringing in Illegal Verdict Favoring Defendant.

Three Hours of Further Deliberations Fails to Bring Agreement, One Juror Holding Out.

Colonel Appears Pleased—Court Tells Progressive Juror He Must Not Let Politics Sway Him.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 21.—After once offering shortly before 11 a. m. today an illegal verdict to the Court in favor of Theodore Roosevelt, the jury trying William Barnes' $50,000 suit for libel, failed today in more than three hours of additional deliberation to arrive at a verdict that was legal. The jury had found for Roosevelt, but proposed that the costs be divided between the plaintiff and defendant. Justice Andrews sent the men back for further deliberations.

The court recessed at 12:30, but on reconvening at 2 p. m., no word came from the jury.

The jury went to luncheon during the recess. It returned to the courtroom shortly before the opening of the afternoon session and immediately went to its room. Juror Burns, who announced earlier in the day he was "for the plaintiff," was the last man in the line of 12 which walked through the streets in single file. A deputy sheriff was at Burns' elbow. Other deputies walked alongside the line and in front of it.

Juror Uses Telephone.

Col. Roosevelt had luncheon at a local hotel. Someone sent him a bunch of flowers while he was dining, and many persons crowded around him in the hotel lobby to congratulate him. The Colonel was wearing a big rose from the bunch when he returned to the courtroom.

Soon after court reopened the jury sent a message to the court. Justice Andrews called one attorney for the plaintiff and one for the defendant. The two lawyers went to the jury room and then escorted the foreman to a telephone booth in the Judge's chambers. The foreman used the telephone for about five minutes and then returned to the jury room.

Judge Departs for Home.

Shortly before 2:30 o'clock, no word having come from the jury room, Justice Andrews announced that he was going to his home and that in case a proper verdict were found before 5 o'clock he should be sent for. If no verdict was returned by that time, Justice Andrews said, court should be adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and the jury locked up.

The illegal verdict was one that carried with it the condition that the costs and disbursements of the trial were to be divided between the two principals. The rule of law is that no conditions regarding costs can be made. When Justice Andrews made a statement to this effect one of the jurors—Edward Burns, a Syracuse motorist and a Republican, dissented from the conditional verdict and announced that he favored a verdict for the plaintiff. The jury was immediately sent back to its room for further deliberation.

Jury Would Split Costs.

Justice Andrews was informed by the foreman that the jury stood unanimous in favor of a verdict for the defendant in case the costs were split between the plaintiff and defendant. The jury debated on the question of costs when it returned to its room, it was said. It was apparent when the roll was called that the costs if the jurors were in favor of dividing the costs, which, at the most, it was said would amount to less than $1500, while others were indifferent.

The law of libel provides that the loser in a contest must pay the costs of the action. Lawyers said there was no way in which the costs could be divided if a verdict was returned. In the event, it was said, of Juror Burns refusing to agree with his 11 companions, the costs would be split.

Roosevelt Apparently Pleased.

Col. Roosevelt declined to comment for publication upon the action of the jury. By the expression of his face, however, it was most apparent that he was as pleased as he possibly could be. His counsel said their client was ready willing to divide the costs if there was any way in which it could be done. They made it plain in the presence of the defendant that a verdict was the thing desired, regardless of any costs.

Barnes was not present in the courtroom when the jury came in, having returned to his home in Albany last night.

Before entering the court room the jury sent a note to Justice Andrews asking for a conference with him. Justice Andrews informed the 12 men they could ask any questions they desired to open court. The jurors talked among themselves for a minute or so, and then announced that they desired to return

SHERIFF DICKMANN'S SISTER
HAS 7 SONS IN GERMAN ARMY

She Writes Business Conditions Are Bad in Cologne and City Is Full of Wounded.

Sheriff Joseph Dickmann today received a letter from his sister, Mrs. Theresa Peters, who resides in Cologne, Germany. Among other things, she says business conditions there are very bad. She said one bank in Cologne had been compelled to close because nearly all of its employees had joined the army, and that probably others would close soon for the same reason. She said there was plenty of food, but that prices were high and constantly advancing. There are many maimed and wounded in Cologne, she continued, and their number is continually being increased by arrivals from the front.

Mrs. Peters has seven sons in the German army, all officers. Two are in the Kaiser's Guard. Two sons are in Russia, two in France, and one recently has been sent to the Italian boundary.

AEROPLANES FOR MILITIA

Also Club Starts Subscription to Buy Air Craft Squadron.

NEW YORK, May 21.—President Alan P. Hawley of the Aero Club of America announced today that a public subscription had been started by the government of that club to acquire a squadron of aeroplanes for the use of militia of each state in this country.

It is proposed also to provide 100 aeroplanes for carrying mail with the understanding that the club and the government will constitute a reserve for military service in case of national need.

WAGNER LOSES PAYLESS JOB

Reappointment of Ball Player as Fish Commissioner Is Withdrawn.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 21.—"Honius" Wagner, the veteran shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, lost his payless job as a member of the State Fisheries Commission.

He was appointed by Gov. Tener in 1914 and shortly before Gov. Tener's term expired, was reappointed, but upon orders of Gov. Brough, the nomination was held up in the State Senate, and yesterday it was withdrawn.

F4 CLEAR OF OCEAN'S BOTTOM

No Assurance, However, That First Gale Will Not Part Cables.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The submarine F4, lost in Honolulu harbor with 19 lives nearly two months ago, has been lifted clear of the ocean's bottom, but naval officers have no assurance that the first gale will not part the cables again.

Whether the cause of her loss can be determined after such a long period of submergence is doubtful.

President Congratulates Cuba.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson today cabled to President Menocal of Cuba, congratulating him of the thirteenth anniversary of Cuban independence. The message said: "It gives me great pleasure to extend to your excellency and to the Cuban people cordial greetings on this anniversary of the independence of Cuba."

A Liberal Education

May be obtained from the advertisements in the POST-DISPATCH. They are full of condensed information on every business subject.

Well informed folks habitually read the store news in the POST-DISPATCH. Our local merchants are aware of this and that's the reason they buy three times as much space in it as they do in other St. Louis newspapers. For example, Thursday, yesterday, the home advertisers bought 92 columns of display space in the POST-DISPATCH alone and only 74 cols. in the Globe-Democrat, Republic and Times combined. In other words they used 18 cols. more in the POST-DISPATCH alone than they did in the three nearest competitors all added together. Reason:

MAUSOLEUM FOR ADOLPHUS BUSCH
TO COST $500,000

Family Has Plans Drawn Up for Magnificent Memorial to the Late Brewer.

TO BE IN BELLEFONTAINE

Architect's Drawings Submitted to Contractors Over the Country Await Widow's Approval.

Plans have been drawn for the erection of an Adolphus Busch mausoleum in Bellefontaine cemetery, at a cost which will be greater than ever was expended on the tomb of a private individual west of the Mississippi River.

The architect is Tom P. Barnett, who has executed many notable works, and who estimates that the cost of the Busch memorial as planned will be between $500,000 and $600,000.

Mrs. Busch in Germany.

The memorial now only awaits the approval of Mrs. Lilly Busch, widow of the multimillionaire head of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association.

Mrs. Busch was about to return to America from her castle on the Rhine when the European war broke out. Since then it has been impossible for her to come to the United States.

While no perspective drawing of the mausoleum has been made, the ground plans indicate that it will be a rarely beautiful and harmonious memorial.

The site chosen is near the present Busch lot and vault, almost in the center of Bellefontaine cemetery.

Cemetery Garden Spot.

As planned, the mausoleum and grounds will be a garden spot in the city of the dead. The main building will be of classic Greek outlines with massive pillars.

A feature of the memorial will be that the grounds surrounding the mausoleum will be made to include a small lake, the greater part of which will be taken in as part of the memorial.

The mausoleum and grounds, as designed, will have a width of 180 feet and a depth of 26 feet.

To the rear of the mausoleum will be marble porticos, pergolas and promenades.

The central space between these enclosing balconies will be a sunken garden in which many rare and beautiful plants will blossom.

A considerable portion of the cost of the memorial is accounted for by the fact that the mausoleum and the paving and copings of the promenades surrounding it will be of the finest marble obtainable. In the mausoleum the windows will be of art glass and throughout the work only the most costly material will be used.

Wait Mrs. Busch.

Mrs. Edward A. Faust, one of the daughters of Adolphus Busch, said today when asked about the matter, that while plans for the mausoleum had been made, the approval of the plans had been delayed by the prolonged absence of Mrs. Busch, who is in Germany. It was Mrs. Busch's expectation, when she went abroad a year ago, to return in September, but she did not return because of the wartime uncertainties of travel, and no definite time for her return is now set. Until she has returned and has inspected the plans, Mrs. Faust said, nothing further will be done.

Charles Nagel, one of the executors of the Busch estate, said today that the building of a mausoleum did not involve on the executors, as no provision for it was made in the will.

Jaw and Nose Broken in Fight.

Edward R. Morton of Altamont, Ill., collapsed in front of 804 Market street at 10 o'clock last night, and when taken to the central dispensary it was found his jaw and nose were fractured. He told the police a negro had assaulted him in front of Union Station.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

Banker's Driver Stopped.

John D. Davis of Brentmoor Park, vice president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., was coming downtown in his limousine, accompanied by two friends, when the machine was stopped. James Halliday, Davis' chauffeur, was unable to show a license. Davis protested, but the machine was ordered to the police station.

Halliday explained to Capt. Johnson that he was out in the rain last night and his clothes got wet. When he put on other clothes this morning he forgot to put the license tag in his pocket. He was permitted to take Davis and his friends downtown on his promise that he would then return to the station with his license.

Lake Hart, Alderman for the Twenty-eighth Ward, was a passenger in one of the captured jitneys. He remained in the car and rode to the police station.

One of the jitneys caught in the round-up is owned by Eric Burns who until recently was a motor cycle policeman. It was given by his son, John Burns, of 4100 Laclede avenue.

68 AUTO DRIVERS ARRESTED IN BIG
JITNEY ROUND-UP

Motor Cycle Squad Stops Scores of Cars; Persons Without Licenses Taken to Station.

Many jitney passengers had an extra ride for their nickel today when the police made a spectacular round-up of chauffeurs who could not show that they had taken out licenses as the law requires.

The big jitney drive started at Locust street and Leffingwell avenue at 7 a. m., under the direction of Motor Cycle Sergeant Mackey, who had a squad of motor-cycle policemen.

Practically every machine gling in either direction on Locust street was stopped. The only exceptions were in cases where the policemen recognized the drivers as being owners of the cars they drove. By 10 a. m. 68 drivers had been arrested, and the total was brought to 68 at 1 p. m.

Prosecuting Attorney Sidner said the general impression prevails that the owner of an auto, if he drives his own car, does not need a chauffeur's license. He said Section 5502, Revised Statutes of 1909, in defining auto drivers, states the term shall be construed to mean "any person operating a motor vehicle as a mechanic, paid employee or for hire."

It is therefore necessary, he said, for the owner of an auto using the machine to carry passengers to get a chauffeur's license.

The prosecuting attorney will not issue warrants until June 1 in cases where arrests were made today, as court meantime will pass upon his interpretation of the law by trying two cases in which warrants were issued yesterday.

Taken to Station.

When jitney drivers were stopped and, failing to produce licenses, were ordered to drive four blocks south to the Laclede Avenue Station, the passengers in almost every instance remained in the machine, thinking the ride to the station would add a touch of adventure to their morning ride. Apparently they also thought there would be only a slight delay at the station and they would continue their journey. In this they were quite disappointed.

Police Capt. Johnson ruled that the chauffeurs without license must be held until they could furnish $200 common law bonds.

Not all of the chauffeurs arrested were jitney drivers, but a majority were.

Feed Existed Between Two—Witnesses Say A. Esseneauer Was Shot in Back at MODOC, ILL.

PHILADELPHIA DU ROCHER, Ill., May 21.—Albert Esseneauer was shot and instantly killed at 8 o'clock today morning by G. W. Osborn at MODOC, four miles south of Prairie du Rocher, when they engaged a quarrel of several years ago. Esseneauer was running away when he was shot. The bullet struck him in the back.

GERMANY'S REPLY TO AMERICAN NOTE TO BE CONCILIATORY

Post-Dispatch Man in Berlin Learns That Empire Is Willing to Yield in Everything Except Submarine Warfare on British Commerce.

EXPECTED TO SEND ANSWER NEXT WEEK

Switzerland Also to Make Representations to Germany in Lusitania Case—Awaits the Reply to President Before Proceeding.

By Karl H. von Wiegand.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
(Copyright, 1919, by Press Pub. Co.)
BERLIN, May 21.—Germany's answer to President Wilson's note probably will not reach Washington before next week. It appears that the Foreign Office has been so occupied in dealing with Italy that it has not yet completed the answer.

I understand that the rough draft of the reply is all but completed; that it is conciliatory in tone and indicates that Germany is willing to do everything possible to avoid friction or complications with America, except to end her submarine warfare against England's commerce.

This rough draft probably will be laid before a conference in the Foreign Office for discussion and possible changes.
With the German and public press absorbed in the Italian situation, which is much nearer home, it is only since yesterday that the closer attention has been directed to the President's note.

No Rupture Is Sought.
In some quarters the note is interpreted as virtually placing before Germany the choice of the possibility of a rupture of relations with America or of retiring from what the Germans regard as a favorable situation brought about by the sinking of the Lusitania.

But everyone agrees that Germany does not want a quarrel with America and will go out of her way to avoid it.
Persons of responsibility express the conviction that President Wilson does not seek a rupture with Germany.

With these two points as a basis for agreement there seems to be no ground for pessimism.

The feeding in German official circles is much more optimistic than among American officials. It is true that with the publication of President Wilson's note, some Americans showed nervousness.

In government circles it is declared that any alarm over the situation is unfounded and unjustified. So far as can be learned, fewer than 30 Americans have left Berlin. Many Americans decline to view the situation seriously.

Relations Not Impaired.
The Lokal Anzeiger denied a Reuter Agency dispatch from Washington which alleged that the relations between the United States and Germany had become worse since the American note was delivered. The Lokal Anzeiger insists there is no ground for such an assertion, nothing having happened since the reception of the note to intensify the situation. My own inquiries at sources in close touch with the affair confirm this.

So far no incidents tending to the insultation of Americans have been reported. This is indicative of the public calm, despite the general conviction that America is unfriendly.

A large American flag is displayed nightly in an act in which American actors are appearing at the Winter Garden. The audience has been invaded by large numbers of wounded soldiers, but so far, no one has in-sulted the flag.

SWITZERLAND TO TAKE ACTION IN LUSITANIA CASE

Government to Decide on Course After Seeing German Reply to America.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 21, via Paris.—The Swiss Federal authorities have decided to make suitable representations to Germany on the sinking of the Lusitania. The decision was reached by a German submarine, as a result of which three Swiss citizens lost their lives.

The Government is awaiting knowledge of the German reply to the Washington note on this subject, so as to be able to choose a wise course of procedure.

The Swiss think well of President Wilson's note, but to most newspapers it appears to be hardly strong enough.
The argument is being made here by Swiss observers that the Swiss representations will have great weight because behind them there will be the Swiss army, 500,000 strong.

Washington Hears German Reply to

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Germany's nearly completed, according to intimadiplomatic channels.

Social Activities Have Stopped and Demeanor of Inhabitants Is Subdued.

SCHOOLS REMAIN OPEN

Bread Restrictions Severe, but There Appears to Be No Restraint on Cakes, She Says.

By Marguerite Martyn.

MRS. DORA REIMANN, arriving in East St. Louis to join her father, Herman Reimann, of 363 E. 12th Broadway, after 12 years' residence in Berlin, brings some fresh observations of wartime conditions in Germany that are novel, at least in so far as they are unofficial, uncensored and uncolored by the vigilantly biased German press bureau, through which much of our information has to pass.

Mrs. Reimann, with her three children, two girls and one boy, all under 10 years of age, left Berlin April 27 and sailed from Copenhagen by a Scandinavian line, April 30.

The children speak no word of English and the little girls seem quite lost to us in their dark colored print pinafores and long flaxen braids.

As a devoted mother, Mrs. Reimann was keenly alive to the risk and responsibility she assumed in crossing in these times, but apparently she is endowed with a good deal of calm courage.
"My relatives tried to dissuade me from traveling while the war is going on,"
she said, "but I have made the journey six times under favorable conditions.
I know my way perfectly, and I rather welcomed the possibility of coming in contact with some of the stirring, history-making events now in progress."

"As it was," she continued, "there were some experiences that might have alarmed some women. I was put through several examinations at every stopping point in Germany, to make sure I was an American citizen, not a German trying to get away. All the gold I had was taken from me and paper certificates were given to me in exchange. I was assured there would be no difficulty in exchanging these at equal value in other countries, but by the time I had got through with the transactions, I had lost about $30 out of $400."

Ship Stopped by Man-of-War.
Her ship was stopped by a big English man-of-war, but we were allowed to proceed unmolested.

"At one time we were warned by wireless to change our course to avoid a possible naval engagement for which we were directly headed. This took us two days' journey out of our way. Otherwise," she added, "dismissing the experiences as trivial, it was a safe and uneventful passage. The ship was crowded with Americans."

Of conditions in Berlin, when she left
there, she said:
"Except that all the men of military age and fitness either have gone or are holding themselves in readiness to go to the front—and there are many yet in reserve—the domestic life goes on quite as usual, undisturbed by the war."
Many, many families are in mourning.
All up and down the streets you see women dressed in black. There is no social life, and there are no pay nor notorious celebrations of victories, because the Germans are a very sentimental people, and they take their emotions very solemnly. Unusual quiet prevails.

"But business goes on and there is work for all who can work. Women are welcomed into occupations they couldn't have hoped to enter before, and they are distinguishing themselves in such places as street car conductors, police officers and elevator operators."
"They always have been school teachers and the public schools are open. I took my children out of school to reach here next Tuesday or Wednesday."

Neither the State Department nor the Austrian or German embassies has any positive information as yet as to the tone or character of the German reply to the American note.

Reported That Germany Will Spare Ships Certified by U. S.
NEW YORK, May 21.—The New York Times correspondent in Berlin cables
the following:

"In conversation with high officials of the Foreign Office I gathered that the reply to the American note sent a week ago will not back down from her previously stated position, because she cannot. But the Kaiser's statements are earnestly racking their brains and taking ample time in the hope of finding some new formula by injecting several new suggestions or proposals which will be calculated to serve as a working basis for further discussions."

"From two well-informed independent sources I have gathered that Germany's answer, which is expected to be ready on Monday, or at the latest on Tuesday, probably will contain a proposal that Germany is willing to refrain from attacking merchant ships which are certified by the American Government as not carrying arms, ammunition and possibly other contraband for German's enemies."

"At the Foreign Office I found Baron Mumm von Schwarzenstein, the coun-ciller, munching an apple in business hours. He accused himself humorously, yet significantly, saying: 'I understand apples are brain food. We need all the brains we can round up now.'"
"He made it clear that those in official circles were thinking overtime to find a solution that would be satisfactory to America and consistent with Germany's safety."

"The key to the problem is American ammunition shipments, which are a source of genuine concern to the military authorities. This undoubtedly is the real reason why Germany hasn't taken back."

bring them here. I believe the universities are closed. All the shops patronized by women are open and seem to thrive as always. You cannot see that women do not take the same interest in shopping and marketing they always did. I had luncheon at the refreshment stand of a large department store in Berlin, just the other day, and I noticed the tables were as crowded as ever, the women dining upon the same fare they always had.

Can't Get Bread Without Ticket.
Of course, you have heard about the bread tickets and the Government regulation of the supply," she said.
"For love or money you can't get a bit of bread without a ticket.
I do not pretend to understand the order, unless it is to encourage the people to a certain frugality. Everyone is supplied with a ticket. I had four for my family, and others to give away.
Each ticket calls for four pounds of bread a week, and that is ample for anyone. But, although cake is made of wheat flour, no restriction whatever is placed upon the supply of cake. The bakeshop I patronize was overrun with orders for cakes at Easter time, and sold many more than the year before."

"There is a limit placed on the supply of kerosene and on the amount of young meat, veal, young pork and lamb one might suspect there is a shortage of imported meat, but otherwise there is no shortage to be observed in anything. It is true, in some places, prices are high, but on the other hand many articles of food are cheaper than here.
Potatoes are plentiful and sugar at four pounds for 25 cents is not so high, is it?"

Mrs. Reimann is an American, born in Illinois. Her father was naturalized 25 years ago. She married a German, but retained her American citizenship with her widowhood six years ago. She speaks as an American.

"I was so proud to tell them in Ger-there is no caste and a man may attain the highest position by mere force of character," she said. "And they would listen in admiration, especially the women, when told them we had no compulsory military service here.

I hated the military system in Germany, and many women there do, although they accept it as necessary, and train their children accordingly."

"The first toy my little boy possessed was a lead soldier, and at 4 years old his father dressed him in a soldier's suit, and placed a sword in his hand."

German Women 'Best in World.'
"I LOVE the German people, especially the women. They are the best women in the world. So good, so devoted to family life that they spoil the men. American men I think are superior to German men in many respects."

"And in Germany," she continued,

CENTRAL PARKWAY ADVOCATES REPLY TO FOES' ATTACK

Citizens' Committee Files Statement in Support of Project With City Counselor.

NOT TO COST $15,000,000

Should Its Expense Exceed
$10,000,000, the Committee
Says, Mayor Will End Proceedings.

The Citizens' Parkway Committee has filed with the City Counselor a statement in reply to the anti-parkway argument filed Wednesday by the Committee of Five of the St. Louis Real Estate Owners' Association. The special election on the parkway ordinance is to be held June 8, and under the law statements for and against the proposal may be filed with the City Counselor who must publish "a fair summary of all such statements" at least 10 days before the election. The statements must be submitted 20 days before the election.

The Parkway Committee's report follows:

"The Committee of Five has issued a circular in which it is assumed that the Central Parkway will cost at least $15,- 000,000.

"There will be no parkway if the cost exceeds $10,000,000. The committee has pledged itself to discontinue the proceedings and abandon the parkway if the cost is found to be more than $10,000,000.

"The property in the 21 blocks in the parkway strip is assessed at $4,000,000, which is less than 30 per cent of the estimate by the Committee of Five.

"The Assessor and Comptroller have stated officially that assessments in St.
Louis are made on a basis of 62-3 per cent of the value of the property."

Based on False Assumption.
"On their assumed basis of cost of $15,000,000, the Committee of Five presents what is claimed to be the distribution of cost within a given district. The committee lays out an imaginary district of 30 by 30 blocks, states the number of square feet within that district, divides the number into squares, divides the squares into 15,000,000, and asserts that each square would have to pay $33."

"The cost will not be assessed by squares. The new charter specifically says the commissioners shall assess against all the lots or parcels of property or interest therein especially benefited by the proposed public work or improvement, separately, and in the name of the several owners thereof, the amount that each such lot or parcel of property or interest therein so assessed shall be especially benefited by the proposed public work or improvement, and against the city as the holder of the franchise over and above the aforesaid special benefits assessed."

"The whole argument of the Committee of Five in distributing the cost of the parkway by squares is an assault on the city by this quotation from the new charter.

"The Committee of Five does some figuring on the assessment of property abutting on the parkway, which is equally at fault with the assertion that assessments will be made by squares. The committee says that the frontage on the two sides of the parkway total 12,000 feet."

30 Per Cent Out of the Way.
"The actual frontage, leaving out streets and alleys, on the two sides of the parkway is 18,336 feet. The Committee of Five is 50 per cent out of the way on the frontage."

"Again, the Committee of Five assumes that the parkway will cost $15,000,000, and that if 25 per cent of that is assessed against the abutting property it would mean $300 for every front foot of property abutting the parkway."

"There is no more ground for this statement than 25 per cent of the cost will be charged against abutting property than there is for the statement that the parkway will cost $15,- 000,000."

"The property in the parkway vicinity is assessed at from $1000 down to $30 a front foot, by the greater part of it being assessed below $100
a foot."

"Yet the Committee of Five advances the astounding argument that the three commissioners appointed by the court will assess $200 a foot as special benefits against the property valued for taxation at less than $100 a foot. In order to buy ground across the street in the parkway strip which is valued at less than $100 a foot for taxation."

NORTH ST. LOUIS RENEWS EFFORTS FOR A STATION

Public Service Commissioner Mc-Quillin Hears Testimony
Upon the Proposal.

The Citizens' and Taxpayers' League renewed its campaign for a passenger railroad depot in North St. Louis this morning, when testimony before Public Service Commissioner Eugene McQuillin began.

Evan A. Smith, attorney for the league, said that he wished to show that a depot was needed at that section of the city by the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Terminal Railway Co. In return for certain rights and franchises, he stated they got the franchises and in return built a passenger station only at the Eads Bridge, which station, he said, did not cost more than $50,000, and which was used mainly by persons desiring to reach East St. Louis quickly.

T. M. Pierce, attorney for the Terminal, told the Commissioner that the present Eads Bridge Station was worth over $300,000, and fully met the requirements of the law and gave the proper service to the people of North St. Louis, thereby saving the trip to the Union Station.

Attorney Pierce, in reply to a statement made by K. L. Bonnell of 3704 Evan avenue that the Washington avenue station was dangerous, said no passenger had ever been injured there.

Would Serve 87,000 Voters.
In contending for a passenger station somewhere between Washington avenue and the Merchants' bridge, Smith stated that there were 87,000 voters north of Market street who would be served by the proposed station.

H. F. Hafner of 24 Windermer place, president of the Hafner Manufacturing Co., Main and Dock streets, was the first witness called. He testified that there are more than 100 industrial and manufacturing plants in North St. Louis and that each one has at least five traveling representatives.

Hafner said that a North St. Louis station there would be a convenience to these men and visiting merchants, as it would eliminate the trip to the Eads bridge or Union Station.

In answer to a question by Pierce, he stated that at night they would no doubt ride right into the Union Station.
He said that on several occasions, to avoid making the trip downtown, he had jumped off the train near his plant
when the train was going slow enough.

Danger at Eads Bridge Station.
Hafner mentioned the fact that south and southwest St. Louis are supplied with passenger stations. He said that getting off the train at the Eads Bridge Station was dangerous, as there was a space of only about three and a half feet between the train and the railroad elevated structure. He said that in entering St. Louis from the North, an hour is consumed from the time the train passes his plant, until he gets off at the Union Station, takes a street car, and gets back to it.

Hafner said that he talked to Bruce Cameron, superintendent of the United Railways Co., about a proposed extension of the Cherokee line east to the contemplated station and was assured that in the event the depot was built the street car line would be constructed.

Travelers Want It.
W. A. Guenzberger of 911 North Broadway, a district sales manager of the Hobart Manufacturing Co., who was the next witness, said that 150 traveling men he talked to declared the new station was an absolute necessity.

He also testified that out-of-town merchants having business north of Cass avenue would undoubtedly use the new station, because it would be a time saver. He testified that if the new station was built he could send his machine to the station and get home very quickly. Attorney Pierson asked him if he had an automobile. Guenzberger declared that he did not, but that he owned a Ford. He said that he attended a meeting of the North St. Louis Business Men's Association and there the sentiment was unanimous for the new station.

F. L. Westerbeck of the Columbian
Can Co., Second and Madison streets, said that several times a day he came into St. Louis on trains from the North Market street, but was informed that it was against the rules of the company.

CHINESE VISITORS SEND GIFTS TO ST. LOUIS HOSTS

Leader of Commercial Commission Sends B. M. L. a Photo and His Biography.

Members of the Business Men's League who entertained the Chinese commercial commissioners last Tuesday and Wednesday, were reminded that it was an old Chinese custom, especially among wealthy Chinese, to leave, upon departure, some token of appreciation for the hosts.

Consequently a number of them were curious to know what reminder, if any,
the 14 Chinese commercial envoys to the United States would leave of their visit to St. Louis.

Inquiry today disclosed that Chang Chen Huan, the leader of the party, had left in elaborate detail the career of this 74-year-old Chinese manufacturer.

Mr. Chang's gift also disclosed that he has an alias, which is Thio Tiew Siat, but no explanation was made of that feature of the biography. Among other things stated about him were that he is a state counselor, decoration of Second Order of "Chia Ho," senior adviser to the Board of Agriculture and Commerce, special delegate to investigate commerce in strait settlements and High Commissioner for the preparation of opening interior ports.

TAUGHT SCHOOL 34 YEARS
Body of Miss Lina G. Shirley to Be Cremated Tomorrow.

The funeral of Miss Lina G. Shirley, 75 years old, for many years a director of kindergartens in St. Louis schools, will be held at the Missouri Crematory tomorrow morning at 10:30.

Miss Shirley died at Kansas City Wednesday, where she had lived since retiring from school work here four years ago, because of ill health. She had served in St. Louis schools since 1877. She had charge of the kindergarten work at different times in the Lafayette, Bates, Laclede and Stodard schools. St. Louis school principals will be pallbearers.

THAW SANITY TRIAL HELD UP
Opposing Counsel Agree to Await State Appeals Court Decision.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Opposing counsel in the case of Harry K. Thaw agreed today to await the decision of the State Court of Appeals before attempting to have Thaw's mental condition determined with the aid of a jury.
A stipulation to this effect was filed in the appellate division of the Supreme Court today.

The question before the Court of Appeals is virtually whether Thaw shall be given a hearing before a jury.

ONLOOKER SHOT IN PURSUIT OF SALOON ROBBER

Armed Man Takes $26 in Bar-room After Routing Occupants—Proprietor Wounded.

When shots were being exchanged between a fleeing saloon robber and pursuers at 10:30 last night, Henry Schluter Jr. was shot in the chest while looking on from the front yard of his home, 2329 North Twentieth street.

The robber, armed with a revolver, had routed John W. Kolb and two customers in Kolb's saloon at 2001 Branch street and had fled south on Twentieth street, after taking $26 from the cash register.

Kolb's calls for help caused several persons in the neighborhood to chase the robber and several persons fired shots at him.

Schluter, with his sister, Olinda, and three brothers, went into the front yard of his home just as the robber ran past.

When the robber was about 50 feet south of the Schluter home he turned and fired several shots. Henry Schluter cried out: "I'm shot." His brothers prevented him from falling. He is at the city hospital in a serious condition. Another shot fired by the fleeing robber struck Kolb, slightly wounding him in the foot.

The robber, according to Kolb, wore tortoise shell eyeglasses and took his revolver from a new holster.

"TROJAN WOMEN" HAS ITS SECOND PRODUCTION HERE

Euripides' Play of 2500 Years Ago Presented at Victoria Theater.

The "Trojan Women," as impersonated by members of the Chicago Little Theater company at the Victoria Theater, last night, were a doleful lot. The neutral spectator was tempted to sympathize with the Greek heroes who, according to the war etiquette of their day, were obliged to escort the captive ladies and cheer them up on the precarious voyage to Argos. Such sympathy could hardly be withheld from Odysseus, to whom the elderly, gaunt and pessimistic Hecuba was allotted.

"Trojan Women" was written by Euripides some 2500 years ago. It has dramatic power, though not the power of the same author's "Medea" or of the "Agamemnon" of Aeschylus. But as a preachment against modern war it is tame in comparison with the almost daily burden of the news from Europe. The killing of the child Astyanax, in the play, is for a well-defined and far-reaching purpose, as compared with the slaughter of the Lusitanian innocents. A talk by Irvin Cobb, to men only, on the scenes he witnessed in Mauthausen would be a more effective bit of peace propaganda than this play. For, after all, men have a good deal to do with the decreeing and making of war.

The same play was produced here by the members of the same company two years ago. Last night's production was under the auspices of the Woman's Peace Party. Andrew Carnegie has guaranteed the expense of the tour.

JANE ADDAMS IN BERLIN TO PRESENT PEACE RESOLUTIONS

Expected to Confer With German Officials—Does Not Fear There Will Be War With U. S.

BERLIN, via London, May 21.—Miss Jane Addams has arrived in this city to present to the Foreign Office resolutions adopted at the Women's Peace Conference, held recently at The Hague. She expects to have a conference with Foreign Minister von Jagow before Sunday, and possibly to see Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg as well. She lunched yesterday with United States Ambassador Gerard, who, it is understood, will assist her in an unofficial capacity.

Miss Addams will go to Vienna and then to Bern and Paris upon the same mission. She expressed the belief today that there need be no fear of serious eventualities between the United States and Germany.

"President Wilson and Secretary Bryan both are firmly opposed to war," she said. "It seems as though the whole world had gone crazy. There must be some little spot left where reason will rule."

COLLEGE STUDENT INVENTS NEW SMELTING BLAST FURNACE

Burns Crude Oil and Is Said to Eliminate Poisonous Copper Fumes—Of Vast Importance to Industry.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—The University of California mining department announced yesterday the perfection by Allan Bruce Marquand, a senior student, of a new ore smelting blast furnace in which crude oil is used as fuel and which, it is said, will eliminate, by means of a hydro-vacuum device, the poisonous fumes given off in the smelting of copper.

The invention is hailed as of vast importance in the copper smelting industry of California, Arizona, Utah and Montana, as it will substitute crude oil as a cheaper fuel for coke, which is now used at a high purchasing cost.

The university authorities say the invention probably will enable half a dozen large copper mines in California, because sulphurous fumes given off damaged fruit and agricultural crops, to resume operations.

MAN AND EMPLOYE SWINDLED

William Peché, proprietor of a saloon at 210 Olive street, advertised his place for sale yesterday and entertained a man who posed as a prospective buyer. The man took Peché to the Olive street entrance of the Railway Exchange Building and told him to wait a few minutes. "Let me have $20 for a minute," said the man when he reappeared. Peché gave him the money. When the man failed to return Peché went back to his saloon and confided his trouble to his bartender.

utes ago and said you wanted it real quick," said the bartender. "and I let him have it." Peché gave the police a description of the man.

ROCKEFELLER JR. READS STATEMENT ON LAWSON CASE

He Refers to "Sinister Reflections" in Chairman Walsh's Questions in Industrial Relations Commission's Inquiry Into the Colorado Mine Strike.

DENIES ATTEMPT TO INFLUENCE COURTS

More Letters Read—Questioned on Ludlow Massacre—Postcard Picture of Boy Shot as He Caressed Sister Shown to Witness.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 21.—Just before John D. Rockefeller Jr. resumed his testimony today before the Industrial Relations Commission, all the commissioners except Chairman Walsh, met in executive session to consider their "round robin" of last night calling for more moderate treatment of witnesses. Some of the commissioners did not conceal that they thought the chairman's questioning of Rockefeller yesterday should have been modified. After the executive session, the other commissioners did not make public their letter to Chairman Walsh, which it was understood they would do should their suggestion go unheeded. Chairman Walsh said he did not know what had happened in the executive session.

"The examination of Mr. Rockefeller," said he, "has and will be conducted with due consideration and the truth will be arrived at."

Statement on Lawson Case.
Rockefeller began today by reading a statement which related to Chairman Walsh's questioning on his view of the regularity of the conviction of John R. Lawson, a mine workers' leader. Rockefeller spoke of "sinister reflections," and said Walsh's questions had been framed to make it appear that Rockefeller conceded there had been willful tampering with the courts. He said that it was his desire that the Supreme Court of Colorado, to which an appeal has been taken, should carefully consider every ground that may be urged and grant a new trial should any material ground be sustained. He denied any attempt either directly or indirectly to influence the judiciary as respects the appeal.

Walsh Resumes Examination.
When Rockefeller concluded, Chairman Walsh said: "If there are any questions that you think should not be answered, you should state the fact and the commission will consider what should be done. I suppose your high regard for law extends to all officers charged with administration of the law?" "Yes, it does," said Rockefeller.

Pressure on Governor.
Walsh then read a letter written to Rockefeller by L. M. Bowers, former superintendent of the executive department of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co., on Nov. 18, 1913. It stated that he had been able to get the co-operation of bankers, who had had three or four interviews with the Governor, agreeing to back the State and lend it all the money necessary to maintain the militia and afford ample protection so that the miners could return to work, or new men be obtained. The letter expressed displeasure because the Governor was still "hobnobbing" with Lawson and other mine leaders.

Another letter, written on Dec. 22, told of the influence that had been brought to bear upon the Governor to help the operators.
"Do these letters show your policy?" asked Chairman Walsh. "Did I write those letters?" demanded Rockefeller. "No, but you received them," said the chairman.

"But I did not write them, so they can scarcely be said to show my policy," returned Rockefeller.
"I propose to call your attention to six letters written by you, in which you say that you back up these actions by Mr. Bowers."

"The letters mean," returned Rockefeller, "that there were disorders in Colorado. Naturally every citizen would use every influence to get the public officers to do their duty."

He declared emphatically that it was absolutely necessary for him "to back up" the men placed in charge of the coal properties.
Several times he objected to the form and nature of the chairman's questions.

Despite protests led by Mrs. Borden Harriman, Chairman Walsh evidently was not inclined to reduce his vigorous attitude and repeatedly piled Rockefeller with questions which the latter declared improper. Once Walsh and Rockefeller parried hotly with questions and answers, Walsh demanding "yes or no," explaining, however, that the witness could develop his answer.

"But you said I must say yes or no, and stop there," declared Rockefeller. "I sat here yesterday all day and heard a witness who was permitted to answer questions at any length he desired, and I demand the same right."

When Walsh agreed that Rockefeller could answer questions as he wished the tense situation appeared to be relieved.

Do you know that Attorney-General Farrar of Colorado went to the Governor and asked him for the use of the militia to install strike-breakers in your mines?"

"I knew nothing of it," said Rockefeller.

"Did your company check the coal miners in weights?"

"Never to my knowledge."

"Did the companies with which you

CITY EMPLOYEES' FUND, OFTEN USED FOR POLITICS, ABANDONED

Counselor, in Opinion, Says Contributions Might Be Found to Be in Violation of Law.

The "bulldog fund" of the Water Rates Assessment Department at the city hall was formally abandoned today. This fund was kept up by assessing each employee for 1 per cent on his monthly salary. In theory, its main purpose was to provide money with which to buy wedding and birthday presents as occasion arose in the department for such gifts, but the money more often was used for political purposes.

In the last campaign $900, the total amount then in the fund, was turned over to the Republican City Committee for campaign purposes.

Yesterday Assistant City Counselor

Danes gave the department an opinion in which he said that while it was no crime for city employees to volunteer contributions for political purposes, a jury judging as to facts in connection with the fund might find that the law was being violated.

Under the new city charter it is a misdemeanor to force city employees to contribute to a political fund.

Ambassador to Tokio Sees President.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Ambassador

Guthrie, home on leave from Tokio, will see President Wilson tonight for the first time since his return. Although the Ambassador was on his way to the United States during the crisis in the Japanese-Chinese negotiations, the President expects to get much first-hand information.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1915, by Press Pub. Co.)

LONDON, May 21.—More than a score of gas cases are now being treated at the American war hospital at Paignton. Most of them are Canadians who took part in the battles around Ypres, where Canadian troops won fame.

Although it is nearly a month since these men were laid low by the German gas they still feel weak. Some of them still taste gas when eating, and others haven't yet been able to take a deep breath without severe pain.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent obtained today the experiences of Sergt. H. W. Hooper, Forty-eighth Canadian Highlanders; Private R. Lowe, First Canadian; Private J. Bergin, Fifteenth Battalion, Canadians; and Private David Smith, Sixteenth Canadian Scottish.

Smith said:

"My eyes were injured by gas from a shell. When it burst light green and yellow smoke came down mixed with black, smelling of ether or methylated spirits. I first felt it smothering my eyes, and then, going down my throat, it smarted the same way. It made me cough. I rubbed my eyes with my handkerchief and didn't know till afterward that gas was in my handkerchief and I was making them worse."

"Gas got into our clothes and made the leather straps on my belt curl up and become brittle. I was blinded for two days after the shell burst. I still feel the taste of gas when I cough."

Caused Congestion of Lungs.

Sergeant Hooper said that the effect of gas projected under pressure from the German trenches caused a gradual congestion of the lungs, followed by a numb feeling in the legs which made them weak.

"In my case," he continued, "its effects rendered me completely unconscious. After recovering consciousness I was troubled with severe pains in my chest and head, with fits of coughing and vomiting. I was coughing up blood and black thick yellowish fluid for about two days, after which the effects gradually wore off. I was also subjected to the effects of shell gas which had practically the same effect, together with extreme irritation of the eyes."

A most dramatic story was told by Private Bergin, who said:

"I was on lookout on the morning of the 24th when I saw great clouds of smoke coming over the land between the trenches. I called to the boys to man their posts. The cloud kept coming very slowly as there was very little wind. It hung tight to the ground and seemed to rise about seven to eight feet in the air."

"At first it hurt my eyes and throat, then got down into my lungs. My chest started to tighten up and it was impossible to get my breath. Some of the boys near me fell down gasping and tearing at their necks with their hands. I don't know how they came through, as what were left of us had to retire till we got out of the thickest of the smoke."

Dead Were Greenish Yellow.

"We lined up again, those who could, but most of them were down and out with gas vomiting and almost blind. I was the same, but, having worked in mines and knowing something about gas, I tied my field dressing around my mouth early in the game, and it didn't hurt me so much as the others. As I went back in a half hour over the ground from which we had retired I saw a lot of our boys lying unconscious and two dead."

"Another thing I noticed was that the big healthy fellows seemed to feel it most. Those who were dead were greenish yellow. The effect on the eyes was very bad. I also for five days coughed up a green substance and my eyes were dim for the same period and all the food and water or anything I ate or drank tasted the same. The smoke hung to our clothes, leaving a khaki-colored stain."

LONDON, May 21.—More than a score of gas cases are now being treated at the American war hospital at Paignton. Most of them are Canadians who took part in the battles around Ypres, where Canadian troops won fame.

Although it is nearly a month since these men were laid low by the German gas they still feel weak. Some of them still taste gas when eating, and others haven't yet been able to take a deep breath without severe pain.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent obtained today the experiences of Sergt. H. W. Hooper, Forty-eighth Canadian Highlanders; Private R. Lowe, First Canadian; Private J. Bergin, Fifteenth Battalion, Canadians; and Private David Smith, Sixteenth Canadian Scottish.

Smith said:

"My eyes were injured by gas from a shell. When it burst light green and yellow smoke came down mixed with black, smelling of ether or methylated spirits. I first felt it smothering my eyes, and then, going down my throat, it smarted the same way. It made me cough. I rubbed my eyes with my handkerchief and didn't know till afterward that gas was in my handkerchief and I was making them worse."

"Gas got into our clothes and made the leather straps on my belt curl up and become brittle. I was blinded for two days after the shell burst. I still feel the taste of gas when I cough."

Caused Congestion of Lungs.

Sergeant Hooper said that the effect of gas projected under pressure from the German trenches caused a gradual congestion of the lungs, followed by a numb feeling in the legs which made them weak.

"In my case," he continued, "its effects rendered me completely unconscious. After recovering consciousness I was troubled with severe pains in my chest and head, with fits of coughing and vomiting. I was coughing up blood and black thick yellowish fluid for about two days, after which the effects gradually wore off. I was also subjected to the effects of shell gas which had practically the same effect, together with extreme irritation of the eyes."

A most dramatic story was told by Private Bergin, who said:

"I was on lookout on the morning of the 24th when I saw great clouds of smoke coming over the land between the trenches. I called to the boys to man their posts. The cloud kept coming very slowly as there was very little wind. It hung tight to the ground and seemed to rise about seven to eight feet in the air."

"At first it hurt my eyes and throat, then got down into my lungs. My chest started to tighten up and it was impossible to get my breath. Some of the boys near me fell down gasping and tearing at their necks with their hands. I don't know how they came through, as what were left of us had to retire till we got out of the thickest of the smoke."

Dead Were Greenish Yellow.

"We lined up again, those who could, but most of them were down and out with gas vomiting and almost blind. I was the same, but, having worked in mines and knowing something about gas, I tied my field dressing around my mouth early in the game, and it didn't hurt me so much as the others. As I went back in a half hour over the ground from which we had retired I saw a lot of our boys lying unconscious and two dead."

"Another thing I noticed was that the big healthy fellows seemed to feel it most. Those who were dead were greenish yellow. The effect on the eyes was very bad. I also for five days coughed up a green substance and my eyes were dim for the same period and all the food and water or anything I ate or drank tasted the same. The smoke hung to our clothes, leaving a khaki-colored stain."

180 REALTY MEN AT BANQUET

New Officers of Exchange Are Installed—Addresses Made.

The installation banquet of the Real Estate Exchange at the Mercantile Club, last night, was attended by 180 realty dealers and property owners.

Addresses favoring the Parkway were made by Julius Haller, president of the Board of Aldermen; Wilbur B. Jones and Charles Z. Trembley, new president of the Exchange. Former Judge O'Neill Ryan, Oregon E. Scott, E. A. Bokern and John J. Dowling were other speakers. Judge Ryan and Scott emphasized the safety of real estate investments and showed that the frauds recently disclosed were isolated cases, not discrediting the general soundness of this form of investment.

MAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Credit Book Issued to W. A. Rogers Found in His Pocket.

The body of a man, who had been run over by an Iron Mountain train, was found this morning near the railroad station at Kendall, in St. Louis County. In his pockets were 35 cents and a book issued by a St. Louis credit house to "W. A. Rogers, 709 North Third street, rear."

Coroner Bopp returned a verdict of accident. He said that while identification would be almost impossible, he believed the man was about 45 years old, with red mustache and dark brown hair.

CONVICT SERVANTS ABOLISHED

Governor of Alabama Holds Service in Homes of Officials is Illegal.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 21.—The practice of detailing convicts as servants in the homes of Alabama State officials and as laborers at the Capitol and other State institutions, was abolished by an executive order today by Gov. Henderson.

The order, which declares the practice illegal, will return about 75 convicts, mostly negro women, to the penitentiary and State convict farm.

KERENS TO BUILD $75,000 CHAPEL IN NEW CATHEDRAL

Plans Completed for Memorial to Late Wife of St. Louis Financier.

Plans have been completed for a $75,000 Kerens Memorial Chapel to be erected in the New Cathedral by Richard C. Kerens, millionaire capitalist, in memory of his late wife. It will occupy a space of 18 by 48 feet, east of the cathedral sanctuary, with a height of 26 feet and, according to George D. Barnett, its designer, it will be one of the artistic gems of the Cathedral.

As described by Barnett, the chapel will be a modern expression of the best byzantine, finished in rare selected marbles, gilt bronzes and Venetian mosaics. The decorative element will carry with it and symbolize the blessed sacrament, the purpose for which it is to be built. Above the main altar will be shown the Last Supper, the foundation of the sacrament, and four highly illuminated picture panels on the side will show the progressive stages. The first is the ordination of the priest, the second the celebration of the mass, his first function; the third the holy communion and the fourth the viaticum, administration of the sacrament to the dying.

The picture representing the first communion will be a tribute to the late Miss X. who brought about the administration of the sacrament to children under 10 years of age. It will be colonnaded on either side with monoliths of selected rare red imported marbles, symbolizing the precious blood. Each column will be surmounted by elaborate sculptured capitals interwoven with appropriate symbolism.

The ceiling, with lunette pinnacles, will be what is known as barrel vault, and will be entirely of Venetian variegated golds, embellished with six adorning angels carrying the symbols of the passion.

WOMAN RECOLLECTS, JUDGE FORGETS, SHE ESCAPES PRISON

Small Fine Imposed Where Long Term in Penitentiary Is Prescribed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 21.—Because she kept an appointment, that a Federal Judge forgot, Mrs. Missouri Baines, 55 years old, walked from the courtroom free.

Mrs. Baines was indicted for making a false application for a pension. At the time Judge Pollock was sitting in place of Judge Van Valkenburg. He admitted the woman to bond and told her to return on a certain future day. Mrs. Baines remembered, but the Judge forgot.

When Mrs. Baines entered court on the appointed date, Judge Van Valkenburg was on the bench. She told him of the appointment.

"Well, you remembered if the Judge didn't," Judge Pollock should remember his appointments better than this," Judge Van Valkenburg said.

The Judge inquired into the case and found the woman in straitened circumstances, with two children dependent on her. He fined her $25 and gave her four days in which to pay it. The crime is punishable by five years' imprisonment.

'HOSPITAL SHIP' LAWFUL PRIZE

British Court Upholds Capture of German Steamer Ophelia.

LONDON, May 21.—The prize court has decided that the German steamer Ophelia, captured in the North Sea by the British destroyer Meteor, Oct. 18, 1914, and brought into Yarmouth the following day, is a lawful prize. Germany protested that this act of capture was in violation of The Hague convention and declared that the Ophelia was a hospital ship. The British Government contended that the Ophelia only purported to be a hospital ship and that as a matter of fact she was masquerading under false colors for scouting purposes.

WAR HAS SHOWN AMERICA TO BE UNITED, G. W. SIMMONS SAYS

St. Louisan Attacks Saloon in Relation to Politics in Address in Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 21.—An interpretation of current events, both national and international, from the standpoint of the business man, was contained in the talk made by George W. Simmons, vice president of the Simmons Hardware Co. of St. Louis, before the Knife and Fork Club last night.

"If this war has done nothing else," he said, "it is our duty to back up the President and be with him in everything he has done for America." Simmons attacked the saloon in its relation to politics by the declaration, "The American man of ideals has revolted against the saloon domination in politics. Its viciousness is such that the clear-thinking man has risen against it. In Terre Haute we have seen it. There the frauds so recently uncovered can be traced to the saloon politician."

MOBILIZED NAVY AVERTED 2 WARS, ADMIRAL SAYS

Chester Tells Mohonk Lake Conference of Crises in 1870 and 1892—Urges Preparedness.

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., May 21.—Rear Admiral C. M. Chester, retired, of Brooklyn, a veteran of three wars, aroused intense enthusiasm at the conference on international arbitration today by a plea for greater military preparation. He said:

"Theories now will not apply. We are coming to a question of practice. I fought in three wars. I had preparatory orders for two other wars which were averted only by the fact that the navy was mobilized when trouble was threatened with Spain in 1870 and with Chile in 1892. Nothing else in the world but the navy would have prevented those wars."

"I can assure you that, you must be prepared for the inevitable that is certain some time to come. One of the dangers to this country is women's propaganda against militarism. Don't try to bring your boys up to dread the inevitable. Don't bring them up to be mollycoddles."

"Only the great Prince of Peace himself will ever bring about cessation of war. Disarm this nation—yes—when crime shall cease, and young men shall cease to go about the street and commit murder for $4 a head. When good will and good fellowship shall prevail throughout the earth, then and not till then will this nation disarm."

Business Delegates for Preparedness.

Those delegates who were appointed by chambers of commerce and similar business organizations of the large cities of the country, aligned themselves today with the advocates of greater military preparation for national defense.

The report of the Business Men's Committee, read by Chairman L. M. Cuthbert of Denver, declared that disputes between nations "ought to be justly settled through the proceedings of international tribunals, instead of war." Nevertheless, the committee asserted its belief "that it is the part of wisdom at present for the United States to be fully prepared to defend itself from possible injustice and aggression," and advocated "the strengthening of our military and naval forces so as to effectively protect our coast."

The report recommended the formation of a code of international laws, the establishment of a permanent international court of justice and of an international police force to execute the decrees of the court. In conclusion the business delegates beseeched for President Wilson in his "delicate and trying position" the "cordial and hearty sympathy and assistance of all citizens, regardless of section or party."

Plan by F. A. Filene.

Edward A. Filene of Boston, national councillor of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, urged that the United States should be willing to make sacrifices to prove its right to a place in the councils which eventually will settle the war.

William A. Weir, Justice of the Supreme Court of the Province of Quebec, praised the "calm wisdom" of the United States Government in its diplomatic relations with the European belligerents, and Simon E. Baldwin, former Governor of Connecticut, spoke on "avoiding occasions for war."

The conference will close tonight with the adoption of a platform.

FRIENDLY REORGANIZATION OF MISSOURI PACIFIC PROBABLE

Gould Interests Virtually Have Agreed to Extend Payment on $6,000,000 Note Holdings.

NEW YORK, May 21.—After numerous conferences, proposals and counter proposals, it has been learned that the estate of Jay Gould, which holds about $6,000,000 of the Missouri Pacific Railway notes expiring June 1, had agreed to extend payment for another year.

The agreement, it was said, was based on certain conditions, which were not disclosed, but were of a nature to prove acceptable to other noteholders.

Bankers representing the Goulds, as well as other financiers acting for the new dominant interest in Missouri Pacific, made statements to the effect that a very large majority of the notes would be deposited, thus averting receivership. Under these conditions friendly reorganization of the road is probable.

DR. GODFREY HENSKE ACQUITTED

Dentist Was Accused by Woman Magazine Editor of Kissing Her. Dr. Godfrey Henske, a dentist, of 181 Cass avenue, was acquitted yesterday in Judge Clark's court of a charge of disturbing the peace of Mrs. Helen Sullivan of 3433 Morgan street.

Mrs. Sullivan caused Dr. Henske to be fined $50 by Judge Sanders in City Court No. 2, March 20. She testified that when she went to his office to solicit subscriptions for a magazine he kissed her. He denied the charge and appealed from Judge Sanders' decision. Yesterday, before Judge Clark, he produced several witnesses who testified to his good reputation.

Boy, 11, Falls Off House.

Edward Human, 11 years old, son of Frank Human, a contractor, of 703 Meramec avenue, Clayton, fell about 25 feet yesterday afternoon, while playing on a house which his father was wrecking. He was unconscious when found, but later a physician said the boy only had been bruised.

CASE

"Always at Your Service, Sir!"

For a trip 'round the block or across the continent, in fair weather or foul, the CASE Car is ever a willing, eager companion. On good roads or bad, it never hesitates or stops—except at your command. All roads are good roads in a CASE—with its cantilever springs. Cushions are extra deep and the upholstery is in real leather.

The CASE Car is built to do honor to a name known throughout the world for over 70 years as a guide to excellent machinery. No other car has such a pedigree.

The CASE Car is as economical to operate as it is sturdy and long-lived. We could have made it cheaper—but it couldn't be made better. Yet men who drive CASES say no car costs so little in yearly averages.

Completely Equipped

The CASE Car comes ready for the road. No "extras" to buy. Its regular equipment includes added features found in no other car in its class. Such as Extra Tires and Tubes, Run with Tire Cover, Hard Wood Side Tire Chutes and Day Clock. If the CASE were equipped as other cars it would cost $1297.75. So, with the added equipment and five per cent off for cash, the CASE is by far the best buy on the market. But first price can be considered only with life-cost. When you really understand all these values, you will certainly understand the logic of the CASE Car.

Any day you wish we'll be glad to point out the hidden values in the CASE Car. Will you make an appointment for today or tomorrow?

RAILROAD OFFICIAL INJURED, SAYS 3 MEN ATTACKED HIM

John R. Hundley Found Unconscious Suffering From Fractured Skull and Concussion of Brain

John R. Hundley, contracting agent of the Wabash and former Captain in the First Regiment, N. G. M., was found near his home, 5237 Kensington avenue, at 9 o'clock last night, unconscious, and with a wound on the top of his head. A passerby found him just as his mother and his younger brother, Daniel Hundley, returned to the house after a walk on a neighbor.

Hundley was found to be suffering from a skull fracture and concussion of the brain. He said, on recovering consciousness, that three men attacked him, one holding his arms, another choking him and the third striking him on the head with a stick or a piece of iron. Policemen began an investigation to learn whether such an attack occurred, or whether, as was suggested, Hundley might have been injured by an accidental fall. He is at his home.

Hundley was fined $10 in police court last January for striking Mrs. Ella Jaques, tenant of the flat at 5235 A Kensington avenue, owned by Hundley's mother. The woman and her husband, Emanuel Jaques, later sued Hundley for $15,000 damages.

SCHRAMM COULD BE REMOVED BY MAYOR FOR CAUSE

Assistant City Counselor So Rules and Kiel Will Attend Investigation Hearing.

ENTITLED TO A TRIAL

Committee of Inquiry to Be Created Today on Resolution by Alderman Koenig.

That Mayor Kiel and not the Board of Aldermen has power to remove Assessor Frank W. Schramm from office following a trial of charges, is the opinion given by Assistant City Counselor Dues in response to a query by the Mayor.

Acting on this advice, Mayor Kiel announced today that he would attend the hearings of an investigation committee to be created this afternoon on a resolution by Alderman Koenig of the Twenty-seventh Ward, to determine his action on the evidence submitted. Dues ruled that Assessor Schramm's status was that of an appointive official under the new charter, and therefore he is subject to removal by the Mayor for cause. The Board of Aldermen has power to remove, by a three-fourths vote, elective officials, or those appointed to fill elective offices, and the Mayor has power to suspend such officials.

Elected Under Old Charter. Assessor Schramm was elected President of the Board of Assessors under the old charter in April, 1913, to serve four years. The new charter changed this office to that of "Assessor" and made it appointive. The new charter provided that the President of the Board of Assessors should continue in the office of "Assessor" until the end of the term for which he had been elected, or April, 1917.

Alderman Koenig will ask for the appointment of a committee of five to investigate statements made by William J. Meekler, who was eliminated after ranking second in the Efficiency Board test for deputy assessors, because he demanded back a resignation with blank date he was forced to sign by Assessor Schramm. Koenig said today if he is appointed to the investigating body he will propose that the investigation be commenced Monday morning and continue without interruption until concluded. He said the entire eligible list of 30, from which Assessor Schramm made 12 appointments, ought to be called as witnesses.

WAR MUNITIONS CASE TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT BY COURT

Arguments Heard on Restraining Order Against Allis-Chalmers Company Secured by Samuel Pearson. MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 21.—After arguments by counsel for both sides on the staying of the order obtained by Gen. Samuel Pearson, which required the Allis-Chalmers company and others to show cause why they should not be restrained from manufacturing war munitions, Circuit Judge William J. Turner late yesterday took the case under advisement.

Attorney Max Pam of Chicago, representing the Allis-Chalmers company, cited proclamations, statutes and treaties on international law and asked the Court to quash the order. "This is an attempt by the plaintiff, claiming to be the owner of property in Germany, to arrogate to himself the prerogative of representing the German empire," said Attorney Pam. "This is entirely a political question and is not one for the courts to decide."

Attorney Henry Cochems, for the plaintiff, declared that the action was instituted by Gen. Pearson as independent of political sovereignty and that the private relief sought by his client was the only relief available.

NEWSPAPER CARRIER ARRESTED

Police Declare He Was Caught Robbing News Stand.

Morris Wasserman, a newspaper carrier of Maplewood, was caught in a police trap set for a newspaper thief at Manchester avenue and King's highway, about 4 o'clock this morning. Fred Longmeyer of 488 Manchester avenue, who owns a news stand at King's highway and Manchester, complained several days ago that he had been missing papers. He and Patrolman Anderson were watching the stand from a place of concealment when Wasserman drove up in his car this morning. Longmeyer and Anderson saw Wasserman take 14 newspapers from the stand and place them in his car.

Shoots Wife and Her Brother. DANVILLE, Ill., May 21.—Mrs. Hazel Booher, 30 years old, bride of six weeks, was probably fatally wounded and her 7-year-old brother received a scalp wound yesterday when her husband, from whom she had become estranged, opened fire upon her with a revolver at the home of her father, Lon Hombrough, in Westville.

Girl Clerks in Bank of England. LONDON, May 21.—The experience of a girl clerk in the Bank of England during the first time in its history, of girl clerks, has proved a great success. The Old Lady of Threadneedle street, in fact, has taken quite kindly to the Young Lady of Threadneedle street.

The Parkway Election.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
What is the real issue in this election June 3 next?

The opponents of the Parkway urge that it will cost about $15,000,000, and that it will be a severe burden on the property owners affected by it, without giving them an equivalent benefit.

The friends of the Parkway assert that these statements are not true, and that they will drop the whole project if on investigation they are found to be true, and Mayor Kiel has pledged himself to veto any further steps if the cost is found to be more than $10,000,000.

The issue, therefore, is one of fact, and there is only one way to determine the truth and that is to have an impartial commission go over the whole project in detail during several months with painstaking investigation and decide what the facts are.

But this is precisely what the election is for. This commission was created by an ordinance.

But the opponents of the Parkway invoked the referendum against this ordinance and forced this election of June 3 on the city.

This is unfortunate, because the election will cost the city $48,000, whereas the commission would have cost only $10,000, and after the commission had found out all the facts then the people could have decided the question intelligently, to wit:

"The Parkway will cost us so much. Shall we have it or not?"

In this election of June 3 the voter cannot decide whether he is in favor of the Parkway or not, because he has no way of knowing what it is going to cost—whether much or little.

If these facts are true: (1) That the Parkway is going to accomplish far-reaching benefits at comparatively small cost; (2) That every property owner will derive a far greater benefit than the amount of his assessment; (3) That it is an imperative necessity to relieve the congestion of traffic already threatening, in addition to its incidental benefits of beautifying, purifying and advertising the city and making it safer and more sanitary.

If these facts are true, as its advocates assert, then the voters would be unanimously in favor of it.

If the opposite statements are true then we would all be opposed to it.

Which is it? It is the duty of every good citizen to find out by voting yes—by scratching the no on June 3, in order to have the commission go ahead with its investigation.

That is the only issue in this election. Since we have gone this far, let us get at the bottom of this thing and find out all the truth, then we can decide it on its merits.

WM. PRESTON HILL.

To Reach the Art Museum.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Since there is a great deal of objection to the proposed line within the park, why couldn't the United Railways Co. build or have built, five or six auto-buses, seating 30 or 40 people, with a conductor to collect fares, and let them make regular trips through the park over an established route, say from Oakland avenue to the De Baliviere entrance via the Art Museum and bird cage—if the latter still remains.

Let the car lines transfer to these buses, and vice versa.

A Parkway Question.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In the case of the recently constructed "Locust street cut-off," connecting Locust street with Lindell avenue, the cost incurred for opening that driveway through a city block amounted to a little over $230,000, of which I understand the city of St. Louis has paid $10,000 and the balance, $220,000, has been assessed as benefits against the property embraced within the "benefitted" district. There are many who are of the opinion that values have not been perceptibly enhanced on property embraced within the "benefitted" district, and doubtless there are some owners who have thus been saddled with this heavy charge, who would gladly sell their property for the consideration less than the former value plus the extra assessment.

Should the proposed Central Parkway become a reality, it is highly probable that these same property owners who have been assessed "benefits" by virtue of the Locust street "cut-off," would have the doubtful pleasure of being again benefited by another assessment for the Central Parkway. Commissioners' estimates of cost to the taxpayers are unfortunately only too frequently underestimated than otherwise. This city's recent experience in the case of our new famous "free bridge" has not yet been forgotten by the already heavily burdened taxpayers. Let not a too ardent enthusiasm for a "New St. Louis" warp our judgment.

EDWARD A. FURZ.

4416 Laclede avenue.

ANTI-PARKWAY ARGUMENTS.

The argument that the Central Parkway is not needed for traffic is met by the actual conditions on Locust street, the chief east and west traffic way. Traffic is so congested on Locust street that plans are announced to make the street exclusive for east traffic in the morning and west traffic in the afternoon. But this will increase congestion on other streets where traffic has nearly reached the limit.

The parkway is needed for traffic not to speak of the value of the park ground. For this many uses contributory to health, convenience and beauty can be foreseen. The municipal exhibit proved how every foot of it can be utilized.

The main arguments of parkway opponents are the cost and the burden on the owners of property in the parkway district.

The cost cannot be determined until the commission has investigated and reported, but we find the opposition not at all adverse to putting an election cost of about $65,000 on the city, before the cost of the parkway has been determined.

As for the burden on the property owners, in view of the ultimate gain in property values what could be more just. If the cost of the parkway were laid upon the whole city thus giving the parkway district property owners all the increase of value on account of the parkway, there would not be a peep from the opposition.

Shall the city's improvement and progress be stopped because real estate owners are opposed to paying any part of the value created by improvements for the improvement? Shall municipal progress stop unless all the profits of progress are assured to benefited property owners and all the costs are paid by all the people?

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

Miss Ida M. Tarbell says that "the war is the greatest advertisement for peace the world has ever known." One of those old-fashioned t. f. orders to the counting room for top of column position, next to pure reading matter, all editions, as it were.

Our own advertisers are clever, often brilliant, but the collective best efforts of all of them are eclipsed by the grim advertisers of Europe who are responsible for this tremendous advertisement.

WHY IS A RAIL BOND?

If that $1500 bond is collected from Sam Welsman, the money will go into the revenues of the School Board, but E. M. Grossman, the board's attorney, says it is not his, but Circuit Attorney Harvey's, duty to enforce payment. Circuit Attorney Harvey says the law makes it Attorney-General Barker's duty to undertake the task. Attorney-General Barker says it is no duty of his and that Mr. Harvey or Mr. Grossman should look after the collection.

The people, who are interested in seeing that this foretold bond is paid, seem to be left with no alternative but to apply to the Free Legal Aid Bureau to find out what the law really is in the case.

GHASTLY JOKES FOR THE MARINES.

Grim humor can see one or two big jokes in the grandest little naval war that ever happened. England has got Germany's big fleet "bottled up." Meanwhile is England mistress of the deep? On the other hand, Germany is saving its battleships until after the war. In time of war it is a wise nation that prepares for peace, which is apparently the only time that big battleships are any good. A great peace navy is the awe of the world. On the other hand, dreadnoughts in actual war constitute the world's largest laughing matter, being the only things that are afraid of each other—nothing appears to dread a dreadnought but a dreadnought. Paradoxically the smallest and most cowardly boats in existence are bearing the brunt of the fighting, doing all the damage and scaring everybody as badly as a dreadnought does in time of peace. Submarines had never been considered significant enough for anybody to name them. They got into the war as anonymously as a tack in a tire.

SPOILS SYSTEM'S "CON" GAME.

"St. Louis is the last of the large cities to adopt the merit system, barring Baltimore," Chairman Rogers of the Efficiency Board told the City Club. But it must not be supposed that the spoilsmen gave up any more cheerfully in other cities than in St. Louis. As a matter of fact, what has been and is happening here has had its counterpart in many other cities—ingenious attempts to obstruct the merit principle and loud howlings from ward bosses as to what they were to do to Mayors, Civil Service Commissioners and others who dared to give out jobs on any other principle than that of recognition for "the boys."

While the encouraging thing is that intelligent men of one party are just as anxious for an improvement as intelligent men of the other, and a change of administration has brought no relief for "the boys." With the passage of the years, the spoils system's big confidence game on the people has been steadily playing out and the merit principle has obtained greater and greater prevalence.

POST HOLES IN PENOLOGY.

Ex-Mayor Donn M. Roberts, Terre Haute election fixer, has been insubordinate at Leavenworth Prison, causing his reduction from the first to the second convict grade. It is interesting to be informed that as a punishment he has been taken off the clerical work in connection with the construction of a new prison building and set to digging post holes.

While the potency of this germicide against the insubordination microbe must depend somewhat on the depth of the holes and the sandiness of the soil, it may be believed that a discovery has been hit on worthy of a place in our advanced studies in penology. Indeed, its effects on the biceps, the muscles of the back and the flexors of the lower limbs are such that it may confidently be recommended as an antidote even for election fixing. If anybody doubts it, let him practice with a long-handled spade as advance agent of the fence builders.

The best feature of it is that with the land we have in this country the "sue" is available in unlimited quantities. Let us put down election-stealing if we have to speckle the surface of thousands of square miles of our territory with post holes dug only three feet apart.

CONCILIATORY, BUT—

The British note on the seizure and detention of American ships and cargoes on account of the anti-German blockade, shows a disposition to be conciliatory and to meet American demands.

A conciliatory disposition, however, is only the beginning of a policy which will satisfy the United States. We want American rights respected at all points and international law observed. We will not tolerate either unwarranted interference with American commerce or murderous attacks on Americans. Belligerents might as well make up their minds to conform to this rule.

AUSTRIA IN JULY AND MAY.

Historian Ferrero has prepared Post-Dispatch readers for an accurate appraisal of the aspirations, the racial aversions, the sense of past injustices that impel Italy into the war.

If Italy is better equipped than most of the nations that light-heartedly went to war late in July and early in August, she also has fewer illusions as to what war in this age means. She must have a lively appreciation of the strain on the national fabric, of the endless sacrifices taxpayers as well as fighting men must make, of the tediousness as well as destructiveness of twentieth century war methods, of the losses by which an advance over a few feet of ground is purchased and especially of the uncertain fortunes of nations that draw the sword.

That, after the object lesson presented to her during eight months, she perseveres in rejecting all efforts to buy her neutrality, evidences the vitality of the ideals by which she professes to be guided.

Austria's realization of what war means is also keener than nine months ago. To those familiar with Austrian traditions it will seem amazing that she offered to divest herself of her ownership of important territory, if Italy would keep the peace. She offered more—a free hand in Albania and a port on the Albanian coast for Italy, the release from her armies of all inhabitants of the territory to be surrendered to Italy, the erection of Trieste into a free city to be dominated by its Italian population.

One can only reflect on the woes from which the world would have been saved if Austria had been as solicitous to preserve the peace in July as she is in May—if she had spared herself the necessity of tendering humiliating concessions which Italy disdains, by sparing Serbia some moiety of hostile demands.

Now she is immolating her pride and voluntarily suggesting the contraction of her own sovereignty. Then she arrogantly insisted on infringement of Serbia's sovereignty.

ONE WAY TO DO IT.

If disappointed spoilsmen on the Republican City Committee wish to hand Mayor Kiel a re-nomination on a silver platter, they cannot adopt a surer method than to try to beat him for defending the merit system at the city hall. The taxpayers, who want the merit system's guaranty of a dollar's worth of work for a dollar of pay, will decide that issue in their own pocket interest any time the spoilsmen put it up to them.

EUROPEANS IN WAR PAINT.

In further evidence of the general retrogression toward savagery on the part of all the races engaged in the war, the Turkish troops, according to dispatches from the Dardanelles, have begun painting their faces.

The purpose is an eminently practical one. It aids their concealment in the trenches and among the shrubbery as they fight the allies, wherefrom we can appreciate the original idea with which the native population of Africa and America painted themselves when about to engage in a fight. The greens made them indistinguishable in forests and the browns and even the brighter ochres helped to merge their outlines in open country. From this it was a natural transition to the painting that made them as little like human beings as possible and to the outlandish designs that assisted in terrifying their enemies.

The methods of the conflict are such that war paint seemingly would be useful for all the combatants. The spectacle of painted Europeans in battle advancing to overwhelm each other with suffocating fumes and mephitic odors would at least be as edifying as some of the other spectacles of the war.

SUBMARINES AND MERCHANT SHIPS.

From the Springfield Republican.

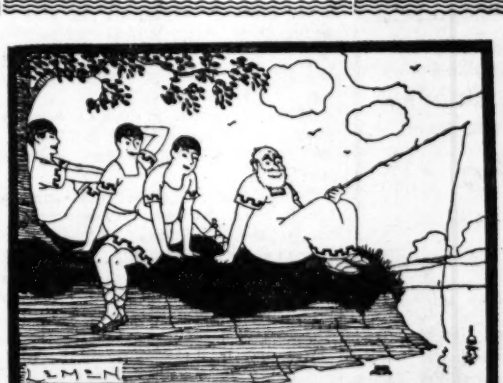

It seems hard to make an end of the misapprehension that Germany, in its response to this country's effort at mediation, agreed to abandon submarine warfare on merchant ships if Britain would abandon its attempt to starve Germany, while the British Government flatly refused to yield.

That version is still being given a wide circulation. But the truth is that the British Government repudiated that it did not understand that the German Government was "prepared to abandon the practice of sinking merchant vessels by submarines." That this understanding was correct appears from the wording of the German note: "The German Government would undertake not to use their submarines to attack merchant vessels of any flag except when necessary to enforce the right of visit and search." It does not say that the ship after being boarded would not be sunk, but that the submarine after boarding it "would proceed in accordance with the general rules of international law." That Germany views these rules as giving the right to sink a seizable ship which cannot be taken into port is a matter of course, and it is equally a matter of course that this would be the usual case. Thus what Germany was ready to give up was not "the practice of sinking merchant vessels," but the practice of sinking them by torpedo without visit, and in return for this it demanded not only that British vessels should not be armed or fly false colors, but that they should refrain from resistance as by ramming.

The arguments advanced in the Falaba case indicate that flight is regarded as resistance. If the merchantmen were forbidden defense, ruse or flight, they would be delivered over bound, and the Germans would make a sufficiently good bargain even without the yielding of Great Britain in the matter of foodstuffs and raw materials.

SOCRATES ON THE POLITICAL FUTURE.

Glaucon: Well, Socrates! How is the fishing?

Socrates: There is no fishing, but it is a good place to think. To illustrate, I was thinking of the probable significance of what the wife of Kielus said the other day.

Polemarchus: You mean about him being a good grandfather and one thing and another as well as a good mayor?

Socrates: Yes. Someone asked her if she had not said that her husband is the best mayor we ever had, and she said he was not that merely, but a good father, grandfather and father-in-law as well.

Thrasymachus: I dare say he is, too.

Socrates: No doubt. Only it interested me to speculate upon the precise relation which those things had in her mind, and to consider if they are an intimation of what is to be required of public men when the women vote. It is not usual for a man to make common lot of one's domestic and public qualifications; but we may probably expect it of the women.

Glaucon: But do you think the wife of Kielus seriously thought that the kind of fathers he is has anything to do with the kind of mayor he is?

Socrates: That I can't say. I only know that people often have in their minds things which others must analyze for them, and that upon analysis I found what I took to be a warning of what the men may expect.

Polemarchus: I don't resent it a bit. I think if one stands for public place the people have a right to know what kind of fathers he makes.

Socrates: They no doubt have, my dear Polemarchus. Only does it not strike you that the acid test in such matters is the kind of stepfather one makes?

Thrasymachus: It is so; except it would not be fair to deprive one of public office for that reason if one had never been given an opportunity to show what kind of stepfather he made.

Socrates: That is true, of course. It would be mere capriciousness upon our part to refuse to support Kielus for re-election upon that score.

Glaucon: So it would. As a matter of fact, if he gets the Parkway through for us, I intend supporting him for re-election without caring what kind of fathers he makes.

Thrasymachus: Jove, yes! I would almost support him, though he abandoned his family.

Socrates: Very well. Now let us all hold our breath. I have a nibble. I think.

If the British Government is going to fire its Lords of the Admiralty until it finds one who can force the Dardanelles, it is probably in for a long season of picking and choosing.

A WOMAN'S SONG OF PEACE.

THRU the roar of the cannons' thunder,
Thru the rifles ominous sound,
Where flags are ripping saunders,
And dead men litter the ground,
I can hear the voice of singing
And it seems to swell and increase,
O'er the battlefields it is ringing,
A woman's song of Peace.

It is wafting into the trenches;
It is roaring up to the sky;
O'er the cots of the wounded soldiers,
It hovers—a lullaby;
And the dying are soothed and rested,
And their groans and struggles cease,
As it lulls them to endless slumber—
A woman's song of Peace.

Oh Faith that can sing defiant
In the glare and the noise of war,
And hope that can live undying
Where the dead and the dying are,
In the brave true hearts of women
May it never know surcease,
But rise in a song triumphant—
A woman's song of Peace.

Summing up for Barnes, Attorney Ivins said among other things: "There are two main exhibits in this case. One of them is the defendant and the other is the plaintiff. If Mr. Barnes hesitated on the witness stand it was because he wanted to be sure about things that happened many, many years ago. Look at the defendant. What did he do? Why, he spoke for the witness chair on one occasion as if it was about to get away from him. He put electricity out of business. He talked with his hands, his feet and his face. His personality was all over the jury box; it permeated the room." That is a fairly faithful portrait of the Colonel, we imagine. Would that we had one as good as Caesar.

Avoid rubbing soap on any part, except the worst spots, and do that before they are put into the water; rinse carefully twice in cool water, then wringing them, but allowing them to drip. After the last rinsing turn them wrong side out and hang them out-of-doors in a breezy shady place. Pin them to the line by the waistband, using pins enough so that they will hang naturally without sagging anywhere. Watch closely, and as fast as the water collects in the hems press it out with clean hands, and then wash the hems with a hot iron on the wrong side, after turning them inside out, pressing down the front of each leg. If the directions are followed they will look like new, and no appreciable shrinkage will be seen.

HEALTH HINTS.

E. C.—Many cases of deafness date back to water entering the ear passage in bathing. Plugs of cotton wool smeared with vaseline are simple safeguards, and should always be inserted, but if, through oversight or accident, water does reach the drum, it must, by holding the ear down, shaking the outside ear with the finger tips and inserting a twist of soft towel, be soaked out as soon and as thoroughly as possible. Even then, too, it is wise to wear a wool plug for half a day. A specialist says: When the ear discharges, roll absorbent cotton on a toothpick and gently remove all the moisture in the bowl of the ear. Then dilute pure peroxide of hydrogen with an equal amount of warm water and with a teaspoonful of medicine dropper drop into the ear, pulling the ear out to allow the liquid to penetrate. After this has bubbled up and become quite warm, turn over the head on a fresh towel. Do this several times. I should not advise the use of cotton in the ear, as it is likely to drive the poisonous discharge back into the ear, and thus affect the drum, sometimes causing "mastoiditis." If the ear aches after the treatment put a few drops of warm sweet oil into it.

The Bargainer

The story of a modest young man to whom love and success came because virtue and humility are always rewarded.

By Rose De Witt Tresham.

"H. Hugh Evans is easy," boasted big, fat Basil Drake, "He's a good fellow, all right. He's friendly and accommodating. Too much so for his own good. Hasn't any ginger in him, though. Wish I could marry him off and see him settle down for life."

Well might Basil Drake speak indulgently and patronizingly of his cousin, Hugh Evans. Years before Drake had been a clerk of the senior Evans. When the latter died he turned the business over to Drake.

"All I ask, Basil," he said, "is that you take care of my boy. Help him along until he can take care of himself, and if you feel like giving him a start in life, then, so much the better."

Now, Drake had done fairly well for this quiet ward, in his own estimation. He had sent him to school and provided for him, but he found Hugh a good helper about the store and had kept him ground down in a business way. Of late Mrs. Drake had intimated that she wished Hugh would find quarters elsewhere, not that she disliked him, but the growing family needed all the living room in the house.

Hugh was a good man. When that was said, it covered the case. He was honest, industrious, sympathetic and kind to all humanity. The Drake system had in a measure tended to suppress ambition, but the mental and spiritual aspirations of the man were pure and strong. He was content to remain in the humble situation fate seemed to have awarded him. As for the rest, truthfulness and earnest sentiments of humanity for all his fellow creatures gave to Hugh that greatest of all blessings, a peaceful mind.

Hugh Meets Her.

It was towards the close of a fair spring day that Hugh, passing down a squalid street in the poorer portion of the town, passed to take in an unusual scene that appealed powerfully to his warm, sympathetic nature.

A small heap of wretchedly poor furniture lay on the sidewalk, evidently just removed from a two-room tenement. In its midst, wan, poorly dressed and evidently ill, was a young girl of about 18. Tears filled her eyes and the look of blank despair in her tired face made Hugh's heart ached. A motherly looking woman with a brood of tattered children at her heels was trying to console the poor girl. Her efforts seemed vain. As she stepped aside Hugh spoke to her and asked her the occasion of the distressing scene.

"Oh, sir, it's pitiful," broke out the genuine-souled creature. "She is Ivy Moore. Her father, who was an old physician without a practice, died a month ago. She has been ill since and today they evicted her and the poor sticks of furniture you see. She is crushed. Oh, she has had so little of joy in life that she is heartbroken! I asked her to make her home with us until she is strong and well, but she will not do it, knowing how poor we are, dear soul!"

"She must do just that," declared Hugh determinedly. "I will give you some money. You must see to it that she has care and food and nursing."

"Bless you, sir! the poor creature needs it," and the woman went back to the girl and talked with her earnestly. Hugh thrilled at the stricken creature cast a glance of gratitude upon him. Then, overcome, she sank back unconscious.

Hugh Proposes.

THEY took her into the rooms of the woman, who promised to care diligently for her charge. Hugh gave her some money. He told Drake the pitiful story of the girl when he got back to the store.

"Humph! You must have money to throw away," remarked his unfeeling relative. "I say, you seem gone on her. I knew her father. A respectable old fellow. Why don't you marry her—that would solve the problem of a poor homeless girl needing a friend?"

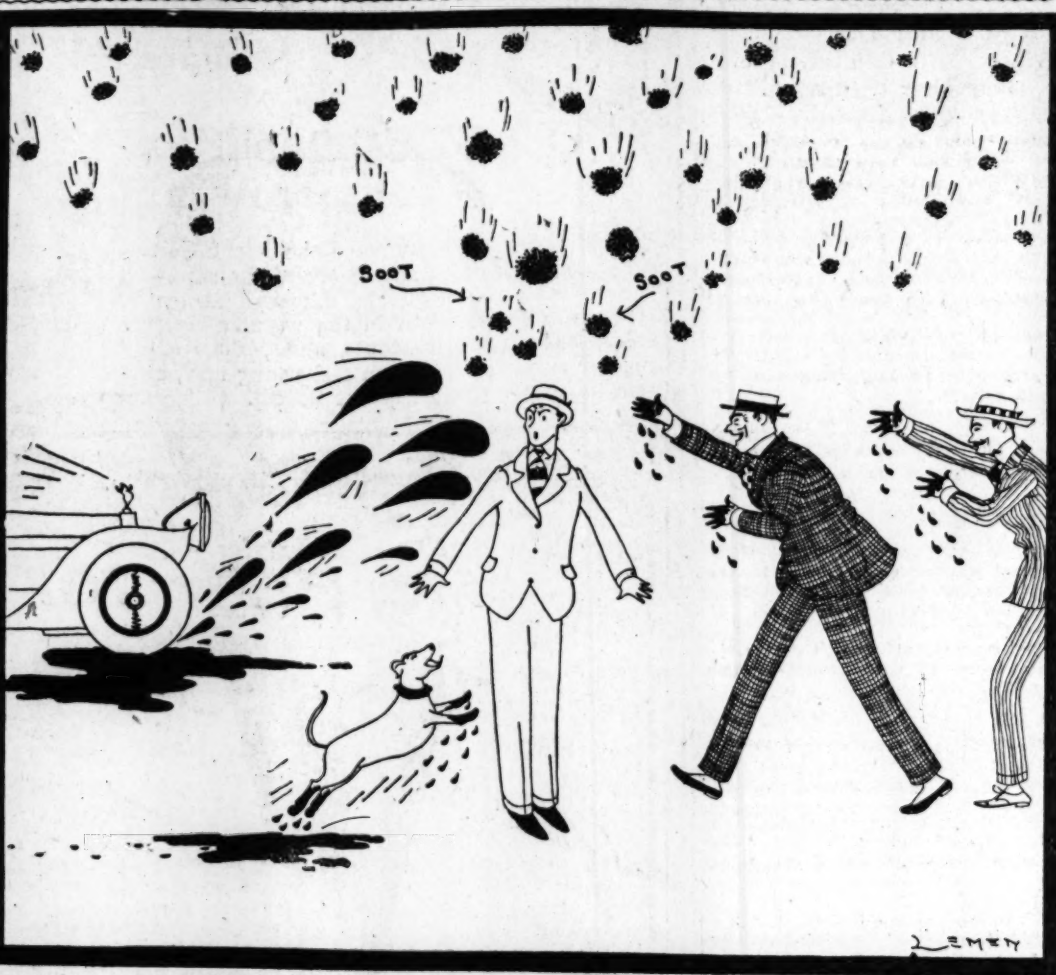

Hugh blushed to the roots of his hair, but said, with dignity: "If I felt myself worthy of that sweet, patient creature I might consider your suggestion."

"Do it," chuckled Drake, "and I'll give you a house and lot as a wedding present."

"You mean that, do you?" interrupted Hugh, rather grimly.

"I do—ha! ha! Sure, I do!" guffawed Drake, as though he was enjoying some immense joke. You give me a sort of cancellation of all obligations and the property I have in mind you shall have."

How It Seems When You Put on Your First Palm Beach Suit

"That's generous of you, Basil," said Hugh, in his usual way of humility. He never forgot the evening, one week later, when Ivy, nursed back to strength and hope, listened to his simple appeal.

"I am a lonesome man, you are a lonesome girl. I offer you a home. I think we could be very happy together."

"Oh! If I could think you would not tire of me—I, so poor, so unused to love and tenderness! I could slave for you and be happy in the merest hut," she said.

Basil Drake, in his coarse way, laughed uproariously as, a month before the wedding, he took Hugh to see "the house and lot."

A narrow strip of land two hundred feet wide, half a mile in length, lay between the hills. Once there had been a house there. It had been burned down. All that was left was a substantial but rough tool house.

"There's your house and lot, just as I promised," he said.

Hugh winced, but he said quietly: "Thank you. I think I can make it do."

The $5000 Windfall.

Hugh set at work to make the big, roomy shell comfortable. One day while he was hard at work a stranger came to him.

"I understand you own the valley strip here clear to the next section line," he remarked.

"That's right," replied Hugh.

"A week ago, all clear and recorded."

"We are surveying for a district power system," explained the man. "I represent the county board of improvements. Your land has a natural slant and could be utilized without excavating. Would you sell?"

"Why, I suppose I would," answered Hugh. "I've considered the land, so low and narrow, rather valueless, but—"

"I can offer you $5000," said the man. Hugh was dazzled. It seemed as if the coffers of Croesus had been suddenly set at his disposal.

"I'll take it," he said, and he signed a contract to accept $5000 for the strip of ground, the "house and lot" shrewdly calculated. Basil Drake had "put over upon him."

Drake looked chagrined and mad when he learned of the transaction. One glorious evening, that of their plain, simple wedding day, Hugh Evans led his bride to the little cottage of which he was the proud owner.

"Oh, Hugh!" she breathed ecstatically, as he led her up the path to the rose-glorified home, "this is not ours?"

"Ours, my dear, yours and mine," he said.

She put her loving arms about his neck. The blue heavens seemed to smile down upon them. Then, true children of the heart, they passed the humble portal of what was to them the most beautiful palace in all the wide, wide world.

SOME NEW RECIPES.

Asparagus Stewed—Cut the points as far as they are perfectly tender into pieces not more than 1/4 an inch in length. Wash them and throw into boiling salted water. When they are tender take out asparagus and lay aside for a few minutes. Have some pieces of toasted bread. Dip them into the water in which the asparagus was boiled. Butter them and place in dish, laying asparagus on top. Pour a little milk into saucepan. Thicken with a little flour and add a piece of butter and salt to taste. Pour the mixture over the asparagus, and serve very hot.

Frozen Pudding—Two quarts of milk, 6 eggs, 1/2 pint jar of cream, 1/2 pound of candied cherries, 1 cup of raisins, 1 tablespoon of gelatin, 1/2 pint of more of rum. Heat the milk, then pour over the beaten eggs. Return to the double boiler and cook till it adheres to the spoon, then add the gelatin that has been soaked in a little cold milk and strain when cold. Add the cream and whipped stuff. When nearly frozen add the fruit. Turn a few times and pack well. Soak the cherries in the rum over night.

Marshmallow Ice Cream—One 10-cent box marshmallows, one pint cream, three tablespoonsful sugar, one tablespoonful orange water. Shake powder from marshmallows, then cut into quarter-inch pieces and soak in cream until dissolved. Add orange flower water and freeze.

Squank, the Pet Goblin

Sandman story which teaches if you plot evil for others it will surely return upon your own head

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONE day as little Squank, the pet goblin of the court of the fairies, was swinging away in his spiderweb hammock, up buzzed Queen Bee, very much excited.

"Oh, little Squank!" she cried. "My busy bees have just brought me awful news. Shagrac and Krakawax, the great ogres, whose wicked plans you have always defeated, have plotted to seize you tomorrow and carry you away to a dark dungeon. They are going to meet at the Magic River at 6:30 in the morning. Then they intend to come over here into Fairyland and steal you."

Up jumped the little Squank from his hammock and stood on his head: he could think better that way. After a while he said:

"Queen Bee, have these ogres ever seen each other?"

"No, little Squank," replied Queen Bee. "Flashing, my busiest busy bee, has told me that they do not know each other by sight."

"Then I can defeat their wicked plans again," exclaimed Squank, jumping to his feet. "Now, Queen, you fly to Shagrac and tell him that I know all about their plot to put me in a dungeon, and that I have got the fairy queen to change me into the form of an ugly ogre with three eyes, and that I am going to be at the Magic River at 6 o'clock in the morning with a great club and roar at him so when he comes he will be frightened out of his wits."

Then you must hurry off to Krakawax and tell him the same story, except you must say that I have a fiery red beard. "No, hot!" he'll yell. Shagrac in the morning," concluded little Squank, with a chuckle, "and see what happens."

Away flew Queen Bee to the cave where Shagrac dwelt and told him all that little Squank had told her to say. "Hot! hot!" yelled Shagrac in laughter, when he heard Queen Bee's words. "So that little goblin thinks he can frighten me by looking like an ogre with those eyes! Here, Jimberjaw!" he called to a servant, "bring out my club with the 5,000 knots. I will wait for him in the morning. And tell the cook to make me an extra dish of meat for breakfast. I want plenty of strength to beat that impudent goblin."

Then away flew Queen Bee to the castle of Krakawax, the ogre, and told him what little Squank had instructed her to say.

"Haw! haw! haw!" roared Krakawax in ogreish glee when he heard that Squank was going to appear at the Magic River at 6 o'clock next morning in the form of a red-bearded ogre and try to frighten him. "Does that little goblin think he can scare me with a bunch of red whiskers? Bonyhand!" he called to a guard of the castle, "get me out that big club with the 50,000 spikes in it. I will need it in the morning."

So leaving the ogres chuckling each one about what he was going to do to little Squank next morning, Queen Bee flew back to the Fairy Palace. Early next morning little Squank and Queen Bee and the fairy queen hastened off to the Magic River and there hid in a flower blossom. When it was almost 6 o'clock they heard a noise like thunder coming from the north.

"That is the voice of Krakawax," said Queen Bee, and at that moment both the ogres came in sight. Each one towered high into the air and each bore a great club, which as they approached each other, they brandished in most threatening manner.

"Oh, little Squank!" cried the Fairy Queen in delight, pinching the little goblin, "each of them thinks the other is you!"

And sure enough, Shagrac, thinking that Krakawax, with his three eyes, was little Squank, changed by the fairy queen, and Krakawax, thinking that Shagrac, with his brightly red beard, was also that same little goblin, they fell upon each other with their great clubs, hammering one another with all their might, crying out that each knew who the other was.

At last, when utterly exhausted, they both sat flat on the ground, each glaring at the other. Then little Squank, mounted on Queen Bee, came flying over their heads and cried out to them: "Let this be a lesson to you both never to plot evil to others, for it will surely return upon your own heads."

Mrs. Gummidge

I DO not know, says a writer, whether Dickens seriously intended Mrs. Gummidge to be taken as a portrait of Queen Victoria, but there is not the slightest doubt that there is a strong likeness between the illustrious sovereign, who mourned so faithfully for Prince Albert, and the charming old lady in "David Copperfield," who was always "thinking of the old 'un."

If Queen Victoria had been the widow of a Yarmouth fisherman her devotion to the memory of her husband might have seemed Gummidgean to her most loyal subjects. But the luxury of regret is one of the privileges of royalty, whereas in humble life it is a comic extravagance. The poor woman cannot afford to spend her life in weeping over the most excellent spouse.

Perpetual brooding over the best of men is in our day regarded as mawkish and morbid. Queen Alexandra has set all widows a splendid example of cheerful fortitude and energetic social service. The modern woman is far more practical than her mother or her grandmother. It is the modern man who wallows in unhealthy sentiment and who reels in gloom and melancholy.

Nearly every man relies on some valiantly optimistic woman to revive his drooping soul.—London Opinion.

KRUMBLES is made entirely of Wheat—the whole of the wheat berry—granulated, cooked and delicately toasted.

It's a new idea—a new method originated by W. K. Kellogg, of Battle Creek. The equipment is patented.

There can be no imitation of KRUMBLES. Every package of KRUMBLES is sure to be Kellogg's. You will find the signature "W. K. Kellogg" on the package, just as you do on Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes.

And the package is the famous damp-proof, air-proof Kellogg's "Waxtite" package.

Serve KRUMBLES all around to the folks at breakfast.

Pour a little cream or milk over it. KRUMBLES has a fine natural sweetness of its own, and the more you chew it the better it tastes.

BRITAIN EXPLAINS WHY SHE DETAINS AMERICAN CARGOES

Foreign Office Declares They Were Either Contraband or Bound for the Enemy.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, May 21.—The Foreign Office has issued a statement to American correspondents regarding American ships and cargoes detained at British ports, which, while declared to be not a reply to any communication from the United States, answers the very questions which dispatches from Washington have indicated would be strongly and firmly set forth in an impending note to Great Britain.

The statement declares that the number of neutral vessels carrying American cargoes, and at present held up, is 36, of which 23 have cargoes of American cotton.

Ready to Pay for Cotton.
The Post-Dispatch correspondent was informed that the British Government stands ready to make immediate payment for this cotton on presentation of proper credentials of ownership.

The representative of the American packers, Mr. Urion, called for the United States last Saturday, but when seen by a correspondent, refused to discuss the situation.

The Foreign Office emphasized to the Post-Dispatch correspondent that American trade with other neutrals had increased. It being asserted that published American trade returns failed to show any justification for repeated complaints as to the great injury suffered generally by American trade.

The memorandum of the Foreign Office follows:

"First. There are at the present moment three American ships detained in this country. Two of them are cotton ships, which are dealt with below. The third is the steamer Joseph W. Fordney. This vessel, with a cargo of foodstuffs consigned to E. Klingner at Malmö, Sweden, was brought into Kirkwall on April 8. She had been sighted by his Majesty's ships about 10 miles from the Norwegian coast and had thereupon endeavored, with the evident desire to evade search, to escape rapidly into Norwegian territorial waters, but without success.

Destined for Germany.
"On the vessel's arrival in Kirkwall inquiries were at once addressed to his majesty's minister at Stockholm with regard to the consignee of the cargo, and a reply was received to the effect that no person of that name could be identified at Malmö, though there was a person of that name who resided at Gothenburg and was manager of the Gothenburg branch of Hugo Hartvig, and who had stated that the consignments addressed to him on board the Joseph W. Fordney were intended for storage in Malmö.

"Second. The suspicious conduct of the vessel in endeavoring to elude his majesty's patrols and the known connections of the consignee of her cargo have tended to confirm other evidence which has come to the knowledge of his majesty's Government that the foodstuffs were, in reality, destined for Germany. It was accordingly decided that the cargo must be placed under surveillance, and the vessel is at present discharging at Portlough (England) on the completion of which operation she will be released.

"His majesty's Government feels satisfied that in circumstances of this case undue interference with American interests cannot with reason be imputed to them.

36 Cargoes, 23 of Cotton, Held Up.
"The number of neutral vessels carrying American cargoes and at present held up is 36. Of these, 23 carry cargoes of American cotton. The United States Government is aware that since the enforcement of the blockade measure, announced in the supplement to the London Gazette of the 12th of March last, his majesty's Government have acted as regards shipments of American cotton in accordance with the provisions of an arrangement arrived at in collaboration with representatives of the American cotton interests. The terms of the arrangements are as follows:

"(a) All cotton for which contracts of sale and freight engagements already have been made before March 2 is to be allowed free transit or bought at the contract price if stopped; provided, the ship sails not later than the 31st of March.

"(b) Similar treatment is to be accorded all cotton insured before the 2d of March, provided it is put aboard not later than the 15th of March.

"(c) All shipments of cotton claiming the above protection are to be declared before sailing, and documents produced and certificates obtained from consular officers or other authorities fixed by the Government.

"4. In accepting this scheme, which it may be noted applies to shipments of cotton for a neutral destination only, the principal representative of American cotton interests describes it to his majesty's Ambassador at Washington as conceding all that the American interests could properly ask. It was never suggested that vessels or should be allowed to proceed. His Majesty's Government were moreover given to understand that the provisions of the arrangement were acceptable to the United States Government.

"It is intended shortly to furnish a statement showing precisely what cargoes, or portions of cargoes, his Majesty's Government have dealt with under the above arrangement and as regards those which they have decided to purchase at the contract price under the terms of paragraph 'A' of the arrangement. Direct discussions have already been opened with the special representatives of American parties interested in London.

"A considerable portion of cotton has already been sold, and arrangements are being made for handing over the proceeds to the parties entitled to receive the total value as a first installment of the completed transaction. It is obvious that all these arrangements require some time for adjustment. Meanwhile it is not believed that the original owners can, as appears to be apprehended, be suffering acutely by the delay of full payment. It is to be presumed that, in accordance with the customs of trade the owners draw bills to the value of their goods before or at the time of shipment and if such bills have been negotiated in the usual way, it is difficult to understand why the drawers should be put to inconvenience on this account at least before the date when the bills fall due.

"On an important review of the facts it will, his Majesty's Government feels sure, be admitted that no interference with American interests in regard to these cargoes occurred, seeing that his Majesty's Government have acted throughout in conformity with the terms of an arrangement agreeable to the interests concerned and that United States citizens will suffer no pecuniary loss.

"As regards other American cargoes or portions of cargoes, which have been placed in the prize court, his Majesty's Government resort to this measure in cases where either the goods concerned are contraband or there is evidence that, although ostensibly consigned to a person in neutral countries, they are in reality destined to the enemy in contravention of the rules of blockade. The right to submit such cases to the public investigation of a judicial tribunal is one which his Majesty's Government cannot forego, and they feel convinced that the enlightened opinion in the United States cannot adversely criticize their course of action in this respect.

"Packing House Products. It is true that a number of these cases have been pending in the prize court for some time. This is notably the case in regard to certain vessels carrying large shipments of meat and lard, ostensibly consigned to Scandinavian ports. The United States Government is, however, no doubt aware that much of the delay involved in these instances is due to the fact that negotiations have been carried on for many weeks with representative of the principal meat packers for an arrangement designed to limit importation into neutral countries adjacent to Germany to quantities actually required in those countries for bona fide home consumption. The American meat packers have demanded as a part of the settlement to be agreed upon that his Majesty's Government should buy the cargoes of several ships now held up in the prize court. Hence the delay in bringing these cases to adjudication.

"The negotiations for an amicable settlement have unfortunately come to a standstill owing to the exorbitant terms insisted upon by the representative of the American packers. This stage having now been reached, his Majesty's Government has decided to go on with the prize court proceedings in these cases and it is not expected that a decision will be much longer delayed.

"Increase in American Exports. It may finally be pointed out that the repeated complaint as to injury suffered in general by American trade on account of interference by British naval measures derive little substance from published American trade returns. A table of figures taken from these returns and showing the amount of recent American trade with Germany and with neutral countries supplying Germany is annexed hereto. It certainly tends to disprove any contention that the American trade with neutral countries has recently suffered. It will be seen that whereas American exports to Germany and Austria in February, 1915, fell by $21,000,000, as compared with the same month in 1914, American exports to Scandinavia, Holland and Italy rose by the enormous figure of $81,500,000.

"Similar figures for the month of March have not yet reached his Majesty's Government, but they have received statistics for that month for the value of exports and imports through New York as issued by the Collector of that Port, and while pointing out a large increase in the value of export in 1915, compared with those of 1914, as shown in the tables annexed, they desire especially to call attention to a separate statement indicating the increase in the amount of export to Scandinavian and Dutch ports of two products—bacon and lard.

"These figures show that as against 1253 boxes of bacon and 5185 tierces of lard exported to the ports noted in the above countries in March, 1914, there were exported in March, 1915, 32,223 boxes of bacon and 16,678 tierces of lard.

"Enemy Destination. His Majesty's Government considers that the abnormal increase in supplies imported by neutral countries, as shown in these statistics, alone justifies their assumption as to the ultimate destination of many items in cargoes consigned to one or the other of the countries in question in the vessels which they have detained; but they would call attention to the fact that it is only when they have believed themselves to be in possession of conclusive evidence of the enemy destination of a cargo that they have seized such a cargo, and that American interests, as far as possible, have been sympathetically considered.

The annual meeting of the South Side Day Nursery, and election of officers, will be held at 1231 S. Tenth street, on Monday, May 24, at 2 p. m.

It Is Not True That Chill Has Signed With the Yanks

INTERCITY SERIES WITH CINCINNATI WINNERS ASSURED

Delegate From Queen City, After Interview With Abeken, to Make Favorable Report.

CLEVELAND MAY COME

Memphis and Kansas City Municipal Baseball Champions Also Seek Games Here.

A National Municipal Baseball Association, with St. Louis and Cincinnati as the backbone may be the ultimate result of the conference held yesterday between Rodolfo Abeken, Director of Municipal Athletics, and Joseph Berning of Cincinnati. Mr. Berning came here in an effort to arrange a series between the municipal champion of Cincinnati and the local champion of St. Louis.

Cincy Follows St. Louis Model.

While the local municipal association comes under the direction of the Park Department, a committee composed of 18 men, who take an interest in the uplift of the amateur sport handle the affairs of the association in Cincinnati. Many of the prominent business men of the city, as well as two judges, form this committee. The Park Department has charge of the grounds and keeps them in good shape.

Griff Refused to Put a Price on Pitchers Sought by the Browns

That it was no fault of Owner Hedges and Manager Ricker that the Browns failed to snare a pitcher from the Washington club during its recent visit to St. Louis is borne out by this telegram to the Post-Dispatch: "Cleveland, May 20.—Hedges refused to buy pitcher, but I would not set price. CLARK GRIFFITH."

When Considering the Stars of Bill Donovan's Club Don't Overlook Chill

"WELL," said Dockery, the staunchest supporter of the Brownies, after yesterday's game, "Donovan certainly has a promising man in this fellow Chill. He's the best ballplayer the New York club has shown yet this trip."

The "DOC" $3.50 to $5

Really, this was subtle sarcasm on Dock's part. Chill isn't a member of Donovan's team at all, at all. On the other hand, he is an umpire, paid by Bill Johnson to arbitrate the difference of the diamond.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Matty Baldwin, Champion.

A NEW pugilistic champion was created at Boston last Tuesday night, and the fact appears to have passed without any "Hail-the-Chief" anthems being shouted. In fact, not one word of championship mention was accorded the victor in the contest, although he earned a referee's decision.

The new "champ" is none other than our old friend Matt Baldwin, the 31-year-old victor of 200 battles in 14 years of warfare under the Marquis of Queensberry rules. At Boston this week he defeated Willie Ritchie, at the Atlas Club.

The decision he received entitled him to the United States championship. For, although Welsh defeated Ritchie in London, Mr. Steffen—which is the name Ritchie's banker recognizes on drafts—had not lost a verdict, any United States lightweight up to this week.

Matty Has 18-Karat Record.

FEW will recognize Baldwin's claim, probably because he has had the curse of "fence-champions" adhering to him for a dozen seasons and can't shake it. But the fact remains that Baldwin has a better claim to the honors than Ritchie. For example:

Baldwin has twice beaten Ritchie, once Aug. 31, 1911, at San Francisco, before the latter was champion, and again this week. The first fight went 20 rounds, the second 12.

Baldwin has fought 204 fights in 13 years, an average of almost one every three weeks, for the entire period.

He has recent victories over Shugrue, Gilbert Gallant, Ritchie and other stars, despite his 31 years. He has fought draws with Wolgast, Mandot, Dundee and other stars, and again this week. The only defeat he suffered last year was by Fred Welsh.

He has fought all the good lightweight who came to the front in 10 years and never has been disgraced, although a few hold decisions against him. Generally he more than evened up with these later.

Ritchie, the Sidestepper.

COMPARED to Willie Ritchie's meager representation in the guide book, Baldwin's stands out. To begin with, Ritchie won the title on a foul from Ad Wolgast, after the latter had been cut down by an operation for appendicitis.

The guide books say he has fought only 21 fights in his career, as compared to 204 for Baldwin.

Feds Release Boucher and Miller to New Independent Minor League

Two players—Hugh Miller and Al Boucher—who have drawn salaries from the St. Louis Federals for doing nothing more harmful than sitting on the bench, have been released to the Hartford club of the Colonial League, the Federals' farm, by Manager Fielder Jones. Last season Boucher and Miller were regulars, the former playing third and the latter first.

This season, with such players as Babe Horton and Charlie Deal, neither one had a chance to show. Lack of ambition was the main cause why neither was given a chance to perform this spring.

Manager Jones yesterday also received a wire from the management of the Springfield club of the Colonial League asking for an infielder. It is hardly probable, though, that Jones will be able to accommodate the team, as he needs all the players he has at present. The Terrers now have only 18 players, seven pitchers, two catchers, five infielders and four outfielders.

Johnson Has Bad Ankle.

Ernie Johnson, shortstop, will probably be missing for a day or two, owing to a wrenched ankle, suffered in the third inning of yesterday's clash with Buffalo, which the locals lost 11-7. Johnson is a slow mover, but he is a good player. After the third and Johnson made the play. After the third and Johnson made the play.

Yesterday's Fight Results.

Joplin, Mo.—Jack Dillon beat Jack Lester in 15 rounds.
Tulsa, Okla.—Freddy Yelle beat Duke Bowers of Philadelphia in five rounds.
South Bend, Ind.—Leo Popp and Young Griffio fought two rounds, when Mayor ordered bout stopped. Griffio substituted for Joe Homelund.

Fremont, O.—Benny Kaufman shaded Frankie White in six rounds.

Drummond Jones to Play Saturday in Triple A Tennis Championships

The annual spring tennis championship tournament of the Triple A club will be started on the Triple A courts in Forest Park tomorrow. Drummond Jones, former city, State and Central States champion, will try a come-back in this tournament. There are 18 entries, among them Roland Hoerr, Van Rappert, Holthaus, Sid Overall, Brodick and the other old stars.

Roland Hoerr will be unable to compete in the tourney tomorrow as he is scheduled to play in the dual tennis meet between Washington U. and Oklahoma U. Monday.

The "Big Nine" tournament, the examinations come at the same time as the "Big Nine" tourney and it will be almost impossible for Hoerr to get away.

Warshaw was lucky to be allowed to live.

The Browns peppered him hard, but every time it got close the Yank defense cut him down. Higher than a kite, Warshaw was allowed to live. He was hit by a line drive, but he didn't get anything, and he didn't get anything.

Garton to Quit Amateur Chess; Meets Sailor Lee in St. Genevieve Bout

A boxing and wrestling show, to be given in the armory at St. Genevieve, Mo., has been arranged for next Saturday night, and it probably will give the boxing fans of that little city some good entertainment.

Most of the participants are well-known in St. Louis, and if they do as well there as they have here they will not boxing on the

Now, then, jury, to whom would you award the U. S. championship, after a review of these facts? To the trial horse, of course. That makes it a horse on Willie.

Adolph Must Be Through.

MANY expressions of wonderment have been heard since the announcement went forth over the wires this week that Ritchie Mitchell had beaten former Champion Ad Wolgast in a 10-round bout at Milwaukee.

"Who is Ritchie Mitchell?" was the immediate question. "Did he win, or was he led across?" was the next query.

The guide books show Mitchell to be a Milwaukeean, not yet 20 years of age, weight 124 pounds—which is evidently a mistake. We refuse to believe that a 124-pound, 20-year-old fighter of two years' experience could defeat Wolgast, unless, unless—

Yes, there's the rub. Wolgast has been battered viciously in fighting the way up. He has been operated on and has never recovered from that, his fights show. He has broken his arm in two times in fights, and it is stated that now he can't hit a punching bag.

If so, Mitchell, or any other fair fighter, might have outpointed Wolgast. For the present we'll have to let it go that way.

But don't take the guide book's word for that weight. Mitchell has probably taken on the regulation poundage of a lightweight since his figures were turned in.

SUN'S HALO ALARMS NEGROES

Delaware Workers Quit Field Following It Frees Disaster. WILMINGTON, Del., May 21.—The halo around the sun yesterday was regarded as an omen of evil by negroes and not a few whites throughout Delaware. In Sussex County, where the strawberry season is now at its height, hundreds of negro berry pickers left the fields in terror and refused to return to their work until after the halo had disappeared. They all said the world was either about to end or that it was a sign of an impending war.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives and publishes news released by the Associated Press.

Confessed Forger Surrenders. A man who said he was James J. Blakely, 34 years old, a clerk of Erie, Pa., surrendered at police headquarters last night and said he was wanted in Erie for forgery. He said he had forged the name of his brother, Eugene Blakely, to several checks, the amounts of which aggregated about $200.

COAST DEFENSES ARE IMPREGNABLE, SAYS GOETHALS

Governor of Canal Zone Declares No Fleet Could Force Way Past U. S. Stronghold.

BALTIMORE, May 21.—Col. George W. Goethals, Governor of the Canal Zone, who is in Baltimore today to receive his LL. D. degree from the Johns Hopkins University, was emphatic in declaring that "the so-called superiority of naval armament compared to sea-coast fortifications, and the much-talked-of ability of war fleets to penetrate these defenses is all a myth."

"When I read in the papers about the probability of a fleet forcing its way past these strongholds I get red hot, because I know that it is an impossibility."

Officer Japanese at Port Arthur. "There is no naval fleet in the world today that can force a strong and properly constructed sea-coast fortification. The Japanese fleet was unable to force Port Arthur; the American fleet could not enter Santiago; the British fleet at present is hammering away at the Dardanelles, and it remains to be seen if it will force the fortifications."

"Fortifications are built to withstand attack, and they are built to remain standing. Fleets that attack them successfully will be compelled to land forces and strike them from some point inland. This is what happened to the American fleet at Santiago."

"The fortifications in the United States are all right; they have been built properly and are among the best to be found. No fleet can enter the harbor of San Francisco by forcing the fortifications. I understand that there are 10 long range guns in the fortifications at San Francisco. These guns could reduce a naval fleet before it got into striking distance."

Work in Panama Finished. "I have been out of the United States for some time, and do not know exactly the number of guns in New York harbor, but the same conditions exist there as in San Francisco. Not in a thousand years could a naval fleet force a well-constructed sea-coast defense. I am through with my work in Panama, and I am going to take a rest for a year. I don't believe I shall enter the service again."

Society

THE McMillan Day celebration at Washington University, which was to have taken place Wednesday afternoon and evening, being held this afternoon and another performance will be given this evening in the quadrangle of McMillan Hall.

About 125 children, sons and daughters of the fashionable young married set, will take part in "The Magic Lamp," at the Victoria Theater, when the first of the two performances is given tonight upon the occasion of the fifty-first annual entertainment of Jacob Mahler's dancing pupils. Some of the children are tiny tots and others are almost in their teens, but all will dance in the ballet that weaves the story of the Magic Lamp into a clever pantomime. The pantomime was written by Mrs. Rosalind Mahler Pufels.

Miss Edith Whittemore, one of the debutantes of the winter, will do a toe dance and Mrs. Edwin P. Hiltz will dance a Russian dance. The second performance will be a matinee tomorrow afternoon. The yearly entertainments are social events of note and always bring out a brilliant audience.

Mrs. William Ewing, who was Miss Maria Taylor of St. Louis, has come from Chicago to visit her sister, Miss Jane Taylor, of 484 Laclede avenue. They are granddaughters of the late Mrs. Andrew J. Lindsay and daughters of Henry von Phil Taylor.

Mrs. L. Kohner of 416 Westgate avenue and Mrs. J. Weinberg of 5812 Clemens avenue have departed for Washington, D. C., to attend the graduation exercises at National Park Seminary, where Miss Adele Elaine Kohner is one of the graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bollman of 6355 Waterman avenue, accompanied by Mrs. Randolph Laughlin, will depart Thursday for New York, where their daughter, Miss Marie Bollman, will be graduated from Miss Bennett's school at Millbrook. They will return in about a week, but Miss Bollman will go to Maine for a brief camping trip with some of the girls and several of the teachers from the school. Miss Joannette Klein, another St. Louis girl, also will be graduated.

The College Club of St. Louis will have its annual luncheon at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at which the installation of officers will take place. Afterward the spring entertainment will be given. The Algonquin Golf Club will be the scene of the entertainment, which will consist of a year of classic dances on the club lawn.

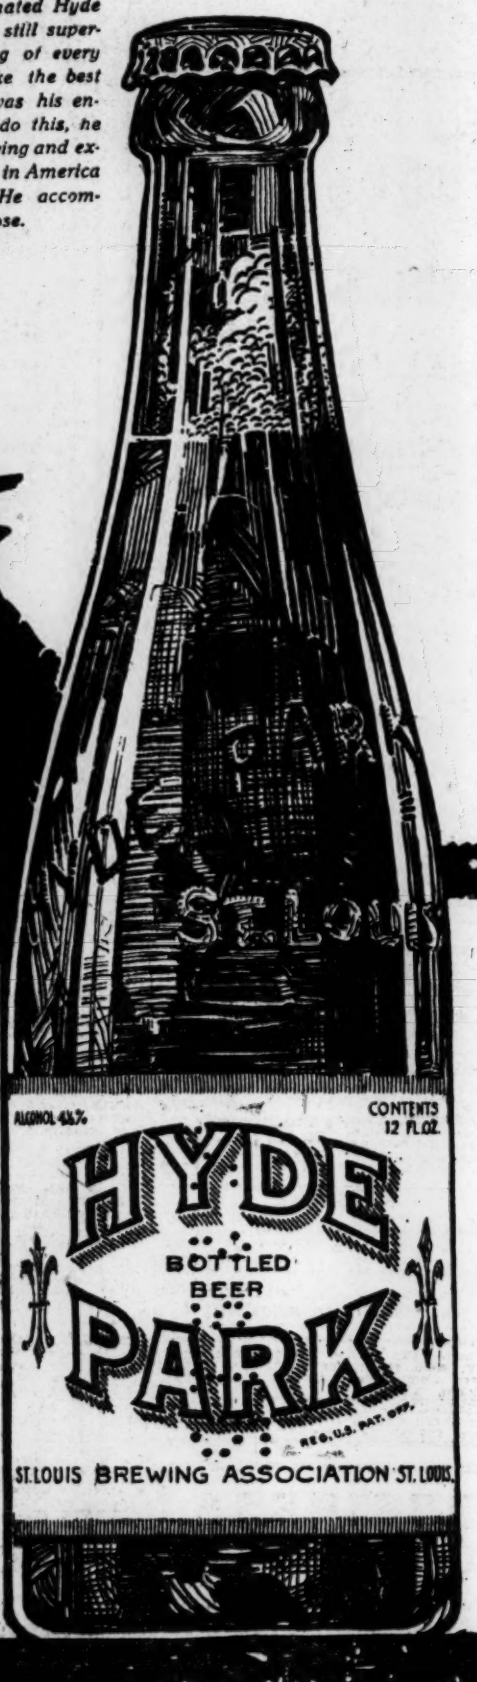

The newly elected officers are Miss Roberta McCulloch, president; Miss Bessie Sherry, vice president; recording secretary, Miss Edith Gladder; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Henry W. Gerling; treasurer, Miss Cornelia Broadard. The board of directors includes Miss Jennie M. A. Jones, Mrs. V. W. Bergenthal, Mrs. H. F. Strillwagen and Miss Genevieve Crumb.

Secretary Houston Visits Forest. PORTLAND, Ore., May 21.—David P. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture, reached Portland yesterday on a trip of inspection through the natural forests of the West and left for the Columbia forest in Washington.

This man originated Hyde Park, and today still supervises the brewing of every gallon. To make the best beer on earth was his endeavor, and to do this, he spent years studying and experimenting both in America and abroad. He accomplished his purpose.

Its Different Flavor Gained Its Favor

The first Hyde Park Bottled Beer was made but eight years ago. Today the sale of Hyde Park, in Missouri, exceeds that of any other beer. What greater evidence of Hyde Park's likability could be offered than this?

There is none, except for you to try a bottle of Hyde Park, and if you do this you will immediately realize the reason for its popularity. One taste will convince you—its different flavor will pleasantly surprise you, and on a warm day a bottle of Hyde Park will make you feel like a new man. It will invigorate and refresh you.

Have you a case of Hyde Park in your home? If you haven't, ask your wife to order one today. Tell her not to order simply a case of beer. Tell her to ask for and insist upon getting Hyde Park.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCordell.

Mr. Jarr Adds to His Ignorance Concerning the Ways of Women.

WHAT is Irene Cackleberry going home for so soon?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"It was at the breakfast table and he could speak up and mention names, because the fair young guest of whom he spoke was still taking her beauty sleep. So was her sister, Gladys, the other visiting Miss Cackleberry. Both were real up-to-date American girls. Up-to-date girls are seldom up to breakfast, for being up-to-date also means up too late."

Mr. Jarr asked the question because Mrs. Jarr had requested him to ask an expressman to call for Miss Irene Cackleberry's trunk.

All this explanation can be given because there is plenty of time, owing to the fact that Mrs. Jarr pays no heed to Mr. Jarr's question.

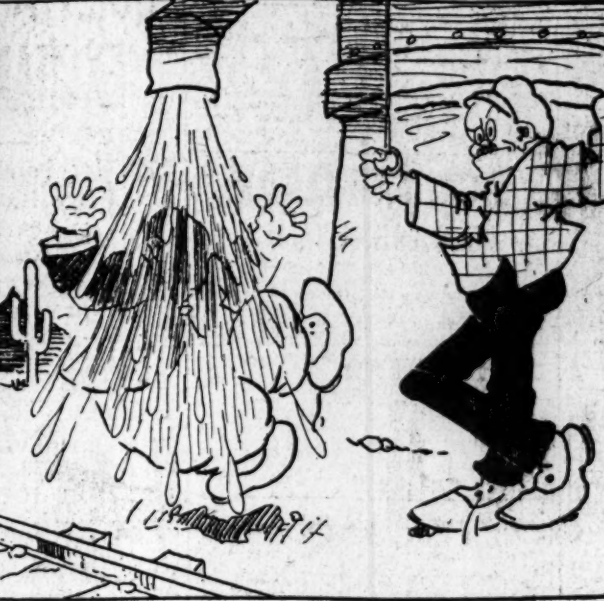

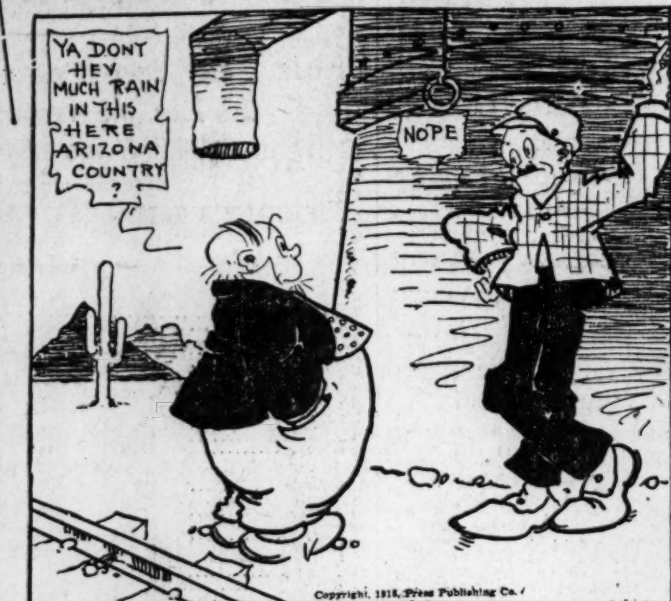

"They didn't get into a real fight, did they?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"Certainly not," said Mrs. Jarr, "the Cackleberry girls get along splendidly together when you consider they are sisters. In fact, the Cackleberry girls get along very nicely together, better than most sisters do, when you consider there's only a little over a year's difference in their ages. If it wasn't for the jewelry and fans and feathers and things like that, they'd never have a word. So that's why I say it is a good thing that Gladys is plump and Irene is tall and stately."

"One is fat and dumpy and the other is tall and skinny," remarked Mr. Jarr, "but how does that keep them from going to the mat with each other often than they do?"

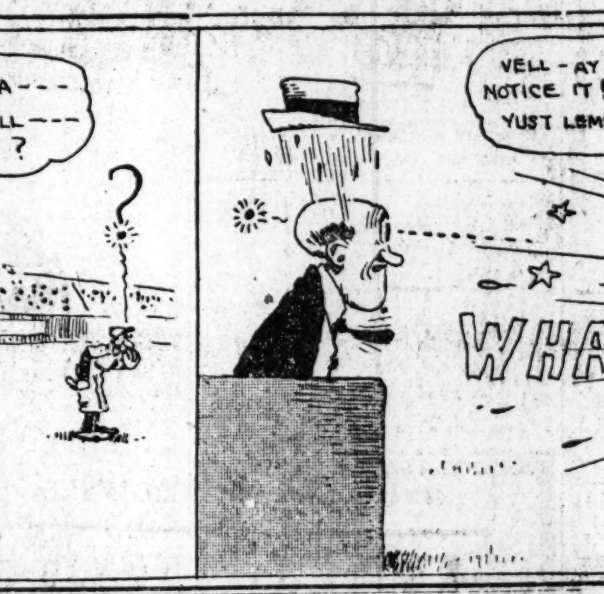

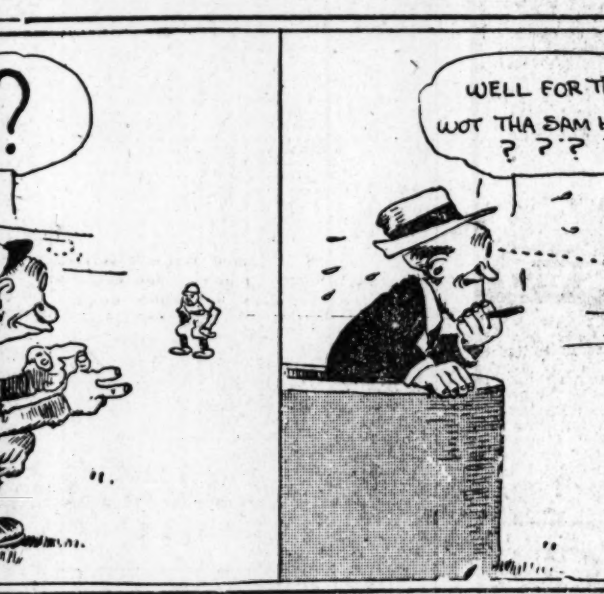

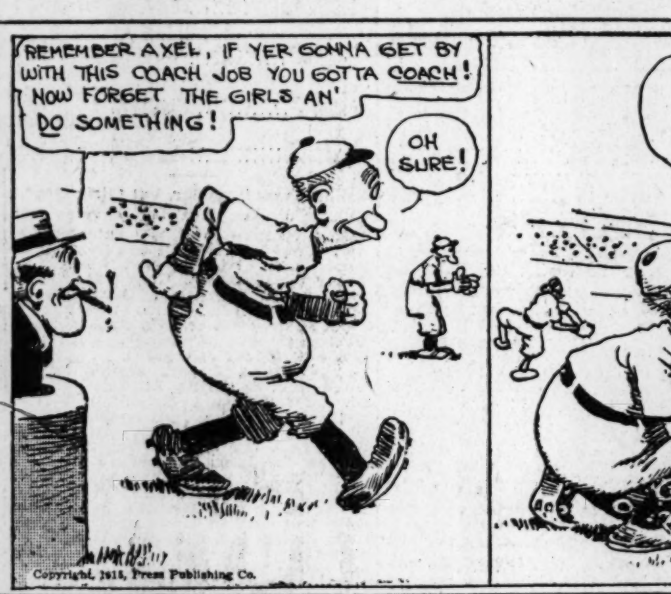

"Because they cannot wear each other's dresses," replied Mrs. Jarr. "That's what causes so many quarrels between sisters—wearing each other's best clothes when they are of the same size. So the Cackleberry girls get along sweetly together with the possible exception of occasional little spats because one gets at the other's jewelry, handkerchiefs, ribbons, hats, perfume and such things, as is natural with girls, and especially sisters."

"How about beauty?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"Sisters try to steal each other's beauty," don't they?"

"Oh, don't be so inquisitive!" snapped Mrs. Jarr, for she realized that it was unwise to enlighten a mere man into the psychological mysteries of feminine minds and manners.

"Well, it seems strange to me that the Cackleberry girls should go to bed last night after Jack Silver was around here selling the good news of coming into another fortune, after he lost one, and both the Cackleberry girls accepted his invitation to take them on an auto ride, and now the next thing I hear is that one of them is going home."

"You mind your business," said Mrs. Jarr, "and don't be thinking or talking so much, especially don't go discussing the Cackleberry girls' affairs with Jack Silver. Gladys is going to stay here and Irene is going back home and that's enough for you to know, or Jack Silver either."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Mr. Jarr, "you're not going to try to capture Jack Silver for one of the Cackleberry girls are you? When he had money, before, Clara Mudridge tried to marry him and you were helping her. Clara Mudridge married my boss, thinking a bird, even if an old one, that had feathered its nest was better to have in hand than a bachelor bird in the bush, especially as the Jack Silver bachelor bird was trying to fly away."

"Well, talk of women being cat!" cried Mrs. Jarr. "You men are worse. You know yourself Jack Silver was very wise to marry a settled man of affairs like old Mr. Smith."

"It's too much for me," said Mr. Jarr. "I only know when Jack Silver went broke, none of the dames were so interested in him. Why, this very Gladys Cackleberry called him a 'hallroom boy' just the other day, when I spoke of having him round."

"Don't interest yourself in things that don't concern you," was Mrs. Jarr's calm advice. "Maybe Jack Silver wouldn't have lost his money if he had had a wife to look after him. I am sure he is a very nice young man, and now that his uncle's will leaving the fortune to a hospital for sick cats has been broken and Jack Silver has money again he'd better marry a nice girl and settle down."

"Do you call Gladys Cackleberry a nice girl?" asked Mr. Jarr. "She's vain, selfish, lazy, discontented, peevish and—"

"I didn't ask you for a character reading of Gladys Cackleberry!" interrupted Mrs. Jarr. "The Cackleberry girls are the only girls of marriageable age I know, and Jack Silver has been a bachelor long enough. He sets a bad example!"

"Did the sisters draw lots for his freedom?" asked Mr. Jarr.

But Mrs. Jarr told him not to be too inquisitive.

A Cyclone Yarn.

A CYCLONE is not such a bad thing, after all," remarked the portly salesman as he settled himself comfortably in his chair. "One saved $5 for me once."

"How did it happen?" asked a lounge.

"I was in a little town out in Kansas about two years ago and wanted to get to another small town, 15 miles distant. There was no railroad between the two points, and I was standing in front of the lively stable arguing with the liveryman, who wanted $5 to take me and my sample cases over, when a cyclone came along and, picking me up, landed me right in the little town to which I wanted to go."

"How about your sample cases?" faltered an awed listener.

"Oh," snuggled replied the salesman, "the cyclone landed them just ahead of me and had my good all spread out on display when I got there."

Suburban Stakes

HOW did you come out on that last poker pot?" asked the first commuter.

"Well, I bet a rosebush. Wombat raised me a geranium and a pint of tulip bulbs. But I bluffed him out with 40 feet of rubber hose and a couple of window screens."

A Sarcastic Shot.

THE peevish one at the corner table summoned his waiter and to him addressed this novel inquiry:

"Waiter, have you ever been to the Zoo?"

"Why, sir, do you ask?" returned the astonished servitor.

"I repeat," demanded the peevish one, "Have you ever visited the Zoo?"

"Well, no, sir."

LONG hair doesn't make an

New Song Hit Just Out

A MAIDEN stood upon the porch;

the clock was striking nine.

When down the street there came a lad who sauntered up the line.

He told her he was lonesome, and he asked her if she'd wed.

She listened very calmly to the things the young man said,

and as he vowed his love was like a lurid, flaming torch.

She said: "Doggone you, Henry!" and shoved him off the porch.

CHORUS:

"I like you, Henry Higgins," said she, "I like you well."

I think we'd be contented and happy for a spell.

I wonder if you mean it—I wonder very much.

Now, don't you kid me, Henry, or you will get in Dutch."

THE USE OF SOAP SPOILS THE HAIR

Soap should be used very sparingly, if at all, if you want to keep your hair looking at its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), is cheaper and better than soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified coconut oil at any pharmacy, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—ADV.

Most men's opinions are little more than variations of a single idea. It is not often that the right thing is done at the right time by mistake. Truth crushed to earth will rise again; but a lie lies.—Philadelphia Inquirer. A mean dog can't blame his faults on human nature.—Toledo Blade.
